Final BULLETINS

Soviets Withdraw On Baltic Front

LONDON (CP)—Moscow confirmed tonight Soviet troops had withdrawn from the town of Tukums, 33 miles west of Riga, in the area where the Germans said they had re-established contact with two Nazi Baltic armies which had been cut off.

Further south, Red Army troops advanced, driving across the Bialystok-Warsaw northeast of Warsaw and capturing more than 50 places in an effort to force a wedge between the Polish capital and East Prussia.

Liquidation of three trapped German divisions in this area cost the Nazis 12,000 dead and more than 1,000 captured, in addition to a considerable quantity of supplies which were destroyed or captured, the Russians announced.

Japs Lack Morale, Stamina---Atherton

Belief the Japanese have not the stamina nor the necessary morale to fight a defensive war was expressed by the Hon. Ray C. Atherton, U.S. Ambassador to Canada, in a press conference today.

"The long days of attrition to come will tell on them," Mr. Atherton said, further expressing the opinion that the mass of the Japanese people were apathetic.

He would not venture a guess as to when the war against Japan would end, saying only that Japan would not stand alone for long once Germany was defeated, and that once she started to collapse it would be a quick and complete collapse.

He did not believe that Japan has any means of replacing the great shipping losses that have been sustained in the last months, and said that the Japanese officials are more interested now in preserving their navy.

Churchill's Gun Destroys Target

ROME (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill personally shot a big U.S. gun at two German positions north of Pisa, it was disclosed today.

Nazis Surrender to Allied Invaders

Patriots Free 6th Largest French City; Yanks Enter Toulon, Drive On Marseille

ROME (AP)—U.S. forces have captured Valensole, 50 airline miles north of Toulon. The U.S. 7th Army has entered Toulon.

Forward elements are nine miles from Marseille.

On the coast east of Toulon the French captured the enemy stronghold of Redon and Hotel de Golf, a mile from Hyeres.

The Algiers radio said today that on Sunday the Maquis captured Toulouse, sixth largest city of France.

Toulouse (population 213,000) is in southwest France, 60 miles north of the Spanish border. Frequent neutral reports have told of German withdrawals from that area.

French patriots now control a third of France comprising eight departments, says Gen. Joseph Koenig, commander of the French forces of the interior.

AIX SURROUNDED

French patriots have been joined at the town of Pertuis, 11 miles north of Aix-en-Provence across the Durance River, by the Yanks who sped forward on both sides of the town.

Another of Maj.-Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Allied columns charged on several miles to the northeast of Aix, key junction of seven highways 15 miles north of Marseille. Another unit was last reported in the outskirts of Aix and today possibly had completed occupation of that town.

The German radio said Allied warships shelled Toulon Sunday. It claimed hits on one of "several" battleships and one of nine cruisers in the attacking fleet by Nazi shore batteries, which, it was claimed, also struck a destroyer and torpedo boat.

The Germans have given no indication of strength or determination to make a real stand in or near the mouth of the Rhone valley, the natural invasion highway for a juncture with Gen. Eisenhower in northern France.

Disorganization among the Germans indicated the Nazi command might be resigned to eventual liquidation of the entire area, and can hope to salvage only a portion of its beleagured units.

The eastern sector of the bridgehead facing towards Cannes and the Italian frontier was reported "most stable," without reference to new gains.

In most sectors of the rapidly expanding southern France bridgehead, the 7th Army followed the effective tactics of by-passing enemy strongpoints.

PRISONERS TOTAL 14,000

The count of prisoners passed the 14,000 mark and more were coming in hourly.

Among the newest captives were Maj.-Gen. Hans Schubert and his staff of six officers and 30 men. Schubert, chief of a district liaison staff, was described as an ardent Nazi. Until June he was chief administrative officer for southwest France with headquarters at Toulouse, and had established a reputation for "extreme cruelty," Gen. Patch's headquarters said.

French troops captured Le Revest, three miles directly north of Toulon, and the adjacent height of Monte Caume. They threatened to cut highway eight—one of the enemy's major escape routes.

Farther northwest, other French units penetrated to the vicinity of Cuges, on highway eight, 6½ miles from the coastal road linking Toulon and Marseille.

U.S. Sub Fleet Bags 19 More Jap Ships

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. submarines in the Pacific and Far East have sunk 19 more Japanese ships, including a light cruiser and an escort vessel, the navy reported today, bringing to 706 the total of enemy vessels sunk by submarines.

One light cruiser, one escort vessel, one large tanker, three medium cargo transport, 11 medium cargo vessels and two small cargo vessels.

Milk for Britain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Approximately 700,000 quarts of milk will be sent to Britain by the Kinsmen club of Winnipeg with revenue received from tickets in the Deanna Durbin model home draw here during the week-end. W. G. Campbell of Melville, Sask., was the winner of the $10,000 home.

Poles In 8th Army Drive Toward Pesaro

ROME (AP) — Polish forces on the Adriatic have advanced seven miles to within 12 miles of the Italian port of Pesaro, where eastern outposts of the Germans trans-peninsular Gothic Line are reputed to begin.

The Germans pulled their defences behind the Meaturo River, Gen. Alexander's headquarters announced. In the advance, the Poles captured Cerasa.

Eighth army patrols made deep penetrations east of Florence, between the upper Arno and Tiber Rivers.

West of Florence the Germans shelled 8th Army positions south of the Arno River. Conditions within Florence were reported "somewhat quieter." Food and other provisions poured in for the citizens.

18,821 Canadians Killed In War; 16,897 Wounded

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian war casualties jumped 8,721 in the June period to raise the war total to 46,394, made up of 18,821 dead, 5,311 missing, 5,365 prisoners or internees and 16,897 wounded, according to official figures released today by Wartime Information Board.

The war total for the army and air force up to May 31 and the navy up to May 29 was previously announced as 37,673. Today's announcement covers all theatres for the army up to June 30 and fighting in Normandy from June 6 to July 20, the navy up to June 26 and the air force up to June 30.

ARMY HARDEST HIT

The army suffered the biggest increase with a total of 29,471 casualties, compared with the previously announced total of 21,689.

The army total was made up of 8,187 dead, 1,726 missing, 3,731 prisoners or internees, and 15,827 wounded.

Navy casualties, not including 81 prisoners taken after the destroyer Athabaskan was sunk near the French coast, total 1,714, made up of 1,159 dead, 335 missing, 8 prisoners or internees, and 212 wounded.

Air force casualties total 15,209, made up of 9,475 dead, 3,250 missing, 1,626 prisoners or internees and 858 wounded.

The last compilation giving the 37,673 total was made up of 1,667 casualties for the navy, 21,689 for the army, and 14,317 for the air force.

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary forces has announced the Canadian losses in Normandy from June 6 to July 20 as 6,545, made up of 919 dead, 4,354 wounded, 1,272 missing.

Here is the latest table for the three armed forces:

	R.C.N.	Army	R.C.A.F.	Total
Dead	1,159	8,187	9,475	18,821
Missing	335	1,726	3,250	5,311
Prisoner	8	3,731	1,626	5,365
Wounded	212	15,827	858	16,897
Total	1,714	29,471	15,209	46,394

B-29 Blows Give Jap Home Islands Biggest Jolting

CHUNGKING (AP) — Superfortresses jolted the home islands of Japan with a double punch Sunday, a Liberator sank a 14,200-ton Japanese cruiser and Gen. MacArthur's persistent airmen finished off enemy aerial defences guarding the southern Philippines.

These wounds, inflicted in a week-end series of assaults from Japan itself to her empire's outer reaches, proved the oriental antagonist was entangled in an air war potentially as devastating as Europe has endured.

In the first daylight operation against Japan proper since the 1942 Doolittle raid, the Superforts of the 20th Air Force got "good" results in a strike at the industrial area of Yawata on Kyushu. Apparently it was the heaviest raid yet against Japan. Tokyo said 80 planes were involved. The army said four B-29 were lost. Enemy fighters strongly resisted and anti-aircraft fire was moderate to intense.

DAMAGE ADMITTED

A quick follow-up raid sent a smaller force of B-29 over the same northern Japan area Sunday night. The two raids cost the Japanese 12 planes destroyed, 12 probably destroyed and 10 damaged. Tokyo admitted some damage.

The heavy cruiser went down Saturday, Gen. Joseph Stilwell's headquarters reported, under three direct hits and one probable.

Gen. MacArthur's communique today said the Japanese were pulling their planes from the cluster of island shielding the southern Philippines northwest of Allied-held New Guinea Halmahera, largest of the Moluccas, was the most important of the islands, stripped. Japan's abandoned airdromes were being ripped up as the enemy withdrew to bases beyond Allied bomber range.

German Casualties In Northern France Top 350,000 Mark

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE (CP)—Gen. Montgomery, commander of all Allied ground forces in western France, told his troops tonight:

"The end of the war is in sight. Let us finish off the business in record time."

Gen. Montgomery's special message said the German armies in northwest France had suffered a decisive defeat.

"There will be many surprises in store for the fleeing remnants," he asserted.

Montgomery said the victory had been "definite, complete and decisive."

British Foreign Secretary Eden conferred with Allied commanders in France Sunday, and, it was believed, discussed questions which would arise with surrender of the German army in the west.

Eden Confers With Line Generals

Front line dispatches dealing with German losses lent strength to Gen. Montgomery's massage.

Total German casualties in the great Wehrmacht debacle in northern France topped the 350,000 mark tonight as Allied headquarters in England said the U.S. 3rd Army in its sweep to Paris had captured, killed or wounded a total of 109,575 Nazis.

It was revealed 49,650 Germans had been captured, 11,025 killed and 48,900 wounded in the U.S. 3rd Army drive. And in the battle around the Falaise-Argentan gap an estimated 25,000 Germans had been captured.

British, Canadian, Polish and U.S. troops between them captured a total of about 70,000 Germans in the Normandy bulge during the day. Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's British 2nd Army alone took 2,000 up to noon, boosting its personal total to 70,000 in the pocket.

Information was lacking today on most of Patton's columns, probing through France like the arms of an octopus.

Refugees slipping from Paris reported street fighting of increasing violence between French resistance forces and the Germans inside the capital.

Another A.P. dispatch datelined "Somewhere in France," said the combat elements of at least 14 German divisions, numbering at least 10,000 men, are trapped by encircling British, U.S. and Canadian forces at Falaise, it was announced officially today.

Another German divisional general, Lt.-Gen Badinski, commander of the 276th Division, was among prisoners taken today. The other two are Gen. Elfeidt, commander of the 84th Corps, and Gen. Menni, commander of the 84th Division.

British, Canadian, Polish and U.S. troops between them captured a total of about 10,000 prisoners during the day.

The total enemy forces killed and captured in the pocket probably will equal the number captured in the conquest of the Contentin Peninsula, where the bag was 36,000.

Nazis Say They'll Spare Paris As Allied Tanks Close In Fast

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS (AP)—U.S. armored columns spread on both sides of Paris today and Allied flags were reported already flying in many parts of the historic capital as an underground army staged a fierce revolt in anticipation of early liberation.

Meanwhile, Reuters reported a Berlin Foreign Office spokesman quoted by the German Transocean agency today said: "Paris will be spared military operations just as we spared it in 1940."

U.S. tanks established a firm bridgehead across the Seine at Mantes, 25 miles northwest of Paris, opening a path to the flying bomb coast 90 miles farther north.

Invasion of the territory north of the Seine at Mantes threatened to compress further the 75-mile-long, 50-mile deep corner south of the river where elements of 18 Nazi divisions were fighting desperately to escape from a succession of pockets with the hope of executing a German Dunkerque across an almost bridgeless Seine.

CANADIANS HOLD

Madly charging into a Canadian band of steel, the Germans made violent efforts Sunday to break out of a mid-Normandy trap, field dispatches said, and were smashed back by the combined efforts of 1st Canadian Army Troops and rocket-firing R.A.F. fighters. (See story page 3.)

Using about 70 tanks scrapped up from the element of five divisions the Germans attacked British troops from the western most pocket in another battle which raged all night, with the result still obscure today.

Thirty-three tanks were reported in the two suicide lunges.

While rain slowed Canadian advances, British elements of Gen. Crerar's command crossed the Vie River in real force, heading toward the Seine, and hammered eastward to within three miles of Lisieux, important communications centre. Livarot, 10 miles southwest of Lisieux, fell to the British forces.

These developments came as other elements of the U.S. 3rd Army fought German elements in the vicinity of Versailles, within 10 miles of the heart of Paris, and established themselves along the Seine southeast of the French capital. Paris itself was said to be seething in revolt in anticipation of liberation from German rule.

(The German official D.N.B. agency declared in a broadcast dispatch that "Allied reconnaissance forces are in the suburbs of Paris.")

The thrust into Cabourg by British troops on the left flank of the Allied offensive, which is forcing Field Marshal von Kluge's forces back upon the Seine, took the Allied force to about 25 miles along the coast from the mouth of the Seine.

PARIS INCIDENTAL

The fall of Paris appeared incidental to the much greater stakes for which Gen. Eisenhower was playing—complete destruction of the German 7th Army and its ill-fated reinforcements from the 15th Army. One Allied officer said, "We're shaking the tree to uproot the German arms, not primarily to get the fruit."

Force-Backed Equality 'Big 3' Peace Plan

3-Week Meet to Blueprint World Security Framework

WASHINGTON (CP)—Representatives of Great Britain, the United States and Russia today began planning a world security organization which all agreed must be based on the "sovereign equality" of large and small nations alike, and must be backed by military forces available and in strength.

State Secretary Hull, in opening the initial session of the conference called for strong commitments to use force when necessary, saying it "must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty."

Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko, chief Russian delegate, likewise emphasized the need for force capable of preventing a recurrence of world war. While he stressed the responsibility for world security to be borne by the great powers because of their strength, he said the foundation of a world organization must be "the principle of the sovereign equality of all freedom-loving countries."

Mr. Gromyko expressed the conviction the war-created unity among the United States, Britain and Russia guarantees the "present exploratory discussions will bring positive results."

SAYS FORCE NEEDED

Sir Alexander Cadogan, the British delegation's leader, also emphasized the need for force and for fair treatment of small nations, but he declared additionally that "peace may come sooner than some expect," and that therefore the conference should move swiftly toward setting up some framework of future international co-operation.

The first session lasted about 35 minutes. It covered only the three speeches plus picture taking. The first business session was scheduled for Tuesday morning.

Subsequent meetings expected to extend over the next three weeks, will be closed.

Mr. Hull's assertion the organization of peace must be backed by force, strongly indicated the United States is entering the meetings with plans for strong commitments on the use of its own forces.

The British representative appealed for the British, U.S., Soviet and Chinese governments to act speedily in erecting a world peace structure in order to get some of it working before the war ends.

PROVISIONAL COUNCIL

He evidently referred to the British proposal that as a minimum the Big Four Nations should band themselves together now in some sort of provisional council until a permanent organization can be formed.

"Events are moving fast and peace may come sooner than some expect," Sir Alexander said in his prepared speech. "It would be folly to delay the construction of at least some framework of future international co-operation until the problems of peace confront us with all their insistency."

The delegates were gathered at Dumbarton Oaks, historic Washington estate, where all their meetings are to be held.

Speaking for President Roosevelt as well as himself, Mr. Hull as official host opened the first session—the first international meeting to block out a security organization since formal work started on the ill-fated League of Nations 25 years ago. Sir Alexander and Ambassador Andrei Gromyko, Soviet representative, spoke in response to Mr. Hull, who then turned over the leading U.S. role to Under-Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius Jr.

Both the British and U.S. spokesmen sought to reassure small countries as to their position in the projected world agency.

While laying considerable emphasis on speed, Sir Alexander said he thought the Dumbarton meeting should concentrate on principles rather than details of organization and should keep constantly in mind that it is not the exact kind of organization so much as the will of countries to co-operate which in the end will ensure peace.

BUILD ON LEAGUE FAILURES

Building on the failures of the League of Nations that had its foundations laid in international conferences a quarter century ago, today's conferees hope to produce in three to four weeks a tentative draft of a world order on which the big four powers, including China, and later all the United Nations, can agree.

One of the most critical questions to be answered in drawing this blueprint is how much power and prestige are to be accorded the smaller countries. The big four nations have agreed in theory they will wield authority commensurate with their military force to be used in suppressing aggression.

Russia, whose official views are still under wraps, has gone farthest unofficially in espousing big-four domination. But Ambassador Gromyko, arriving Sunday from Moscow with Russia's plans, declared he was "most optimistic about the success of the coming conferences."

Authorities here said they knew of no serious obstacles to a four-power agreement.

There is some apprehension over the attitude of Russia. That country, which so recently emerged under its present form of government through oceans of blood and privation and sacrifice, may bring a realism to the conference which the older, richer democracies cannot appreciate.

Apple Shipments From Okanagan to Show Big Increase

Growers in the Okanagan estimate 6,003,570 boxes of apples will be shipped from the district this season, compared with 4,116,128 boxes a year ago, it was reported today by the Department of Horticulture.

Wealthy and McIntosh apples are sizing well and taking on color rapidly in the Kamloops section. Transcendent crabs and a few mature Duchess are already going out. At Lytton the orchards have suffered severely because of sun scald, result of July's hot spell. In the Grand Forks area damage from hail in June has proved less extensive than at first suspected. Apples have sized rapidly and taken on color. Slight scab has shown in a few of the orchards. Spraying for late brood of codling moth is in progress.

Blackberries and a few sour cherries are the only small fruits now being picked in the Vancouver Island and Gulf Island district. Prune picking is expected to get underway shortly in the mainland.

Harvesting of Bartlett pears is almost completed in the Oliver-Osoyoos district. Rochester peaches are being picked around Penticton.

Bean picking for the canneries is going forward rapidly on the Lower Mainland while there is a heavy movement of green tomatoes at Kamloops. In the Armstrong district the tomato tonnage is not as heavy as was indicated earlier in the season.

A few carloads of early potatoes are being shipped from Grand Forks to the eastern States.

Grain crops around Grand Forks and in the Kootenays are progressing but need moisture.

Grasshoppers are still doing considerable damage around Vernon and aphids continue to be troublesome. In this area onion fields have been affected with downy mildew.

Cruisers Lob Shells Into Nazi Defences In Bayonne Area

IRUN, Spain (AP)—Three light Allied cruisers shelled almost non-existent German defences in the Bayonne area of southern France starting before dawn today.

Spanish residents of this border town 18 miles to the south had a grandstand seat.

The cruisers which first patrolled the coast south of Bordeaux evidently were feeling out German defences, but drew only an occasional reply from two or three coastal batteries near Bayonne.

South of Bayonne, Hitler's so-called "Atlantic Wall" no longer exists, for the Germans pulled out Sunday night, leaving their defence works in ruins.

A U.S. motorized column meanwhile was reported to have passed through Angouleme, 130 miles south of Nantes on the Loire River and 165 miles northwest of Bayonne, without encountering resistance on its way toward the Spanish frontier.

The U.S. were said in border reports to have received a joyful welcome by the French in all villages and towns through which they passed.

The three Allied warships were plainly visible from the Spanish coast when the fog veiling their approach had lifted.

They shelled the coastline methodically for more than half an hour. Splashes of shells in the water around the cruisers from the light German counter-fire were also seen, but no hits were observed.

The warships ceased fire about 7.45 a.m. and disappeared northward.

A SEAMAN writes to say it is wrong to say the men of the merchant service enjoy scrapping with Vancouver zoot-suiters and chuckle about it over their glasses of beer. "Seamen today are respectable men. They don't fight or brawl in Liverpool, Vancouver or anywhere else," he says. "Nor do many of them drink beer. To suggest they enjoy these riots is a disgraceful libel on well-behaved gentlemen whose behavior is beyond reproach. Newspapermen may get into brawls. Seamen don't." Nasty crack that last one, don't you think? But until a Gallup poll proves the contrary it is still safe to bet that few merchant seamen, or newspapermen, dash out at the beginning of every month to see where they can trade their liquor ration coupons for a pound of tea. However, a navy man said the other day the majority of navy men scorn the daily tot of rum, which he said now is a "take it or leave affair" with no "10 cents a day in lieu of." He also said the former popular system of saving the daily tot, until it filled a bottle that could be profitably sold, has been ruled out.

Fly B.C. Produce For New York Lunch

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fish, flowers, fruits and vegetables from British Columbia will be flown east on a United Air Line cargo liner Tuesday as the first full plane load of perishables ever flown from coast to coast.

The special flight is to demonstrate the postwar possibilities of shipping perishables by air, Air Lines officials said.

The products are to be displayed and tasted at an "air-borne perishable clinic luncheon" in New York.

Officials said fruits and vegetables picked on this coast the day before the flight would be served in New York the following noon.

Caught By Maquis, Terrorized Gestapo Plead for Mercy

NEW YORK (AP)—Members of the vaunted German Gestapo were pictured as terror-stricken men cringing with fear after their capture by conquering Maquis forces in eastern France, in a report Sunday night by CBS correspondent Howard K. Smith.

In a dispatch relayed to New York by way of Switzerland, Smith said he and his wife had just completed "a four-day tour of conquest with the French people's own army of liberation" behind the German lines.

Describing a courtyard scene in Annecy, where the Maquis had herded together eight of the Gestapo, Smith said one of the Nazis fell to his knees "and begged my wife to save him."

"They cringed with fear," Smith said. "They distinctly shuddered at our approach. At first their lips shook so they could hardly speak.

"After we talked to them in German—none spoke French—they flung themselves on our shoulders and wept like children. We were overwhelming with explanations. The explanations were hard to take for we had met a half-dozen Frenchmen who still bore marks of tortures by these men."

Smith said the Germans insisted they had not wanted to be Gestapo men, but had been conscripted. They blamed the high officers of the S.S. (Elite Guard).

Canadian Fighters Enjoy Field Day With Nazi Transport

By DOUGLAS AMARON

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Spitfire and Typhoon pilots destroyed and damaged more than 400 German vehicles in week-end attacks on the shattered German 7th Army.

Poor flying conditions limited operations today, but reports from Normandy bases said 50 vehicles were hit during two morning sorties by airmen from the Spitfire wing commanded by Group Capt. W. R. MacBrien of Ottawa and Toronto.

Today's successes in the area west of Bernay were scored by Wolf and Red Indian squadrons commanded respectively by Flt. Lt. J. E. Collier, Portage la Prairie, Man., and Sqdn. Ldr. W. A. Prest, Prince Albert, Sask.

Most of the transport Saturday was found between Bernay and Lisieux, but the airmen said the volume of vehicles moving was less. Five hundred and fifty vehicles were hit, 130 of them by R.C.A.F. Typhoons, which also destroyed four tanks, left six smoking and damaged three others.

Pilots said the Germans were making every effort to camouflage vehicles, even parking trucks alongside transport burned out the previous day.

In Saturday's forays the Red Indian squadron destroyed 23 vehicles, left 47 smoking and 41 damaged. Flt. Lt. T. H. Hoare of Winnipeg was credited with seven flamers, two smokers and one damaged.

Canadians Block Desperate Nazi Try to Break Out

Novel 'Hog Calling' Offensive Crushes Morale of the Nazis

As the second invasion of France rolls on, psychological warfare is playing an increasingly important role. Millions of leaflets—44 tons of them—were dropped over France before the Riviera landings were made. In addition, mobile radio broadcasting units urged the Nazis to surrender and are also being used to pass on instructions to French patriots. This is the story of the mobile radio broadcaster's part in winning the war.

By TOM WOLF
Victoria Times Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE—Psychological warfare is no tilt with creampuffs at 40 paces. It's not for the "hog callers" at any rate.

The "hog callers" are members of the Second Mobile Radio Broadcasting Company — which has as part of its equipment sound trucks and men who operate them. When they left for France these sound truck men thought their job was going to be driving through long-captured towns bellowing news and orders. And so in part it is.

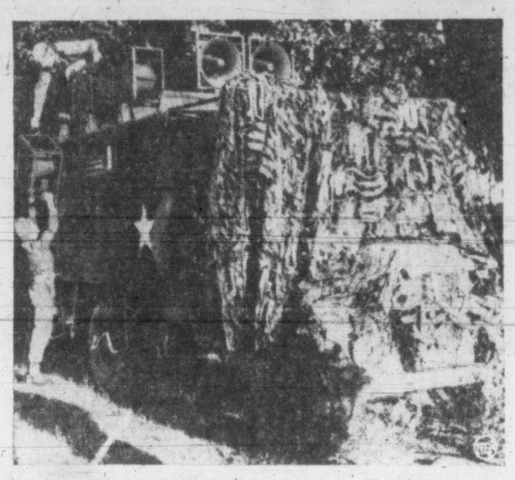

But at the front someone got the bright idea that if we could make ourselves heard above the cacophony of battle, maybe we could talk some of the hopelessly surrounded Germans into surrendering. So they called for sound trucks. The upshot was that more than 2,000 members of the master and their affiliated races poured out from the fortifications with their hands up and their weapons down. Ever since then some sound truck of the Second MRB has spent most of its time calling "hogs."

This is what it's like:

TEAMWORK

We arrived at regimental headquarters in a shell-shattered farmhouse about 6 in the evening. The Regimental Intelligence Officer, a major, outlined his plan. The Germans opposing us were pushing us around. Their mortars and 88s had our positions and roads leading to them zeroed in and were throwing a devastating fire.

However, the major explained, the German position was salient. Our artillery could stop any attempt to retreat or reinforce the Germans. If we preceded our speech with an artillery barrage sample of coming events, we might be able to talk some into surrendering.

Camouflaged mobile radio broadcasting units like this one play a major role in war of nerves that brings surrender of Nazi troops.

While the major and sergeant worked on the speech, the lieutenant and the crew went forward. We drove slowly, careful not to raise tell-tale swirling dust above the tall hedgerows banking both sides of what the French road maps accurately call "chemins d'interets" — "interesting roads."

"GIVING US HELL"

The driver pulled up the truck at a farmhouse a quarter of a mile from the front. Setting up the equipment was a matter of minutes. A reel of wire was run from the truck and carried to the front with a loud speaker.

The front was a dirt-reinforced hedgerow at the crest of the hill. The foxholes below it were deep and carefully banked—the kind men dig when under fire and entrenching doesn't seem like work. "I sure hope it works," said a bearded, dusty, tired GI. "They've been giving us hell all day."

The lieutenant looked over the top of the parapet. The Germans were in the valley about 300 yards below. He decided to place the speaker just in front of our lines. Sound would carry from there. There was no point in sneaking it down within 40 yards of the enemy as he's done on one previous occasion.

"Achtung, achtung, achtung," the sergeant's voice boomed loud and clear across the valley. "You are good soldiers. You have fought well. Still your situation is hopeless. You saw some of the thousands of planes which this morning gave your comrades on another sector a going over and brought you heavy losses. In Russia and in Italy even Hitler's general staff has revolted. Hitler continues a hopeless fight whose outcome is merely the death of German soldiers. We give you now a last chance to save your lives. In about 15 minutes we will shell your positions with smoke to give you an opportunity to come to our lines unobserved. Your highest duty is to save your lives for your families and for a new Germany. Decide now."

No prisoners came in that night. A couple were heard to call "Kamerad" when the sergeant got through speaking. But they never showed up. Maybe it was just one of those times when the enemy wasn't psychologically prepared to surrender.

To the hog callers is was just another day's grind.

Journalism Institute Urged by 300 Editors

WINNIPEG (CP)—The silver jubilee convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association wound up late Saturday with more than 300 editors urging establishment in Canada of an institute of journalism.

George Murray of the Alaskan Highway News, Fort St. John, B.C., mover of the resolution said the institute's aim should be to place journalism on a similar footing to the medical and legal professions. A code of ethics governing all editorial workers should be drawn up and schools of journalism established throughout the country.

The resolution, seconded by Hugh Savage of Duncan, B.C., a C.W.N.A. past president, will be turned over to the new board of directors for consideration.

2,300 Prisoners Captured In Push Headed for Seine

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN FRANCE (CP)—A frantic, disorganized attempt to break through the Canadian-Polish barrier blocking the Trun gap has been smashed by the combined efforts of 1st Canadian Army troops and artillery.

The German thrust was made Sunday with a hastily scraped-together force which tried to break open the trap between Trun and Chambois on a front about a mile wide. About 30 tanks lent their weight to the Nazi punch.

Enemy losses piled up as Canadian artillery and rocket-firing R.A.F. Typhoons poured devastating fire on their milling quarry.

A German corps commander was captured and prisoners taken by the Canadian army Sunday numbered at least 2,300, to bring the bag to between 4,000 and 5,000 since Falaise fell four days ago.

It was stated at Canadian army headquarters there still is "quite a lot of stuff in the trap" and the enemy still is trying to force his way out.

The German force which tried the break-through had support from the other side of the barrier where a tank-led Nazi force moved in to meet them.

This outside force massed northeast of Trun, near Vimoutiers, and was taken on by the R.A.F., who accounted for 13 tanks there. The going was what a senior Canadian officer called "sticky" for a while, but the effort finally was smashed and "nothing substantial got out."

While spectacular gains were lacking on the Canadian front, British troops under Lt.-Gen. Crerar's command hammered to within three miles of the important communications centre of Lisieux on a front between Le Mesnil Mauger and Le Mesnil Durend.

HEAD TOWARDS SEINE

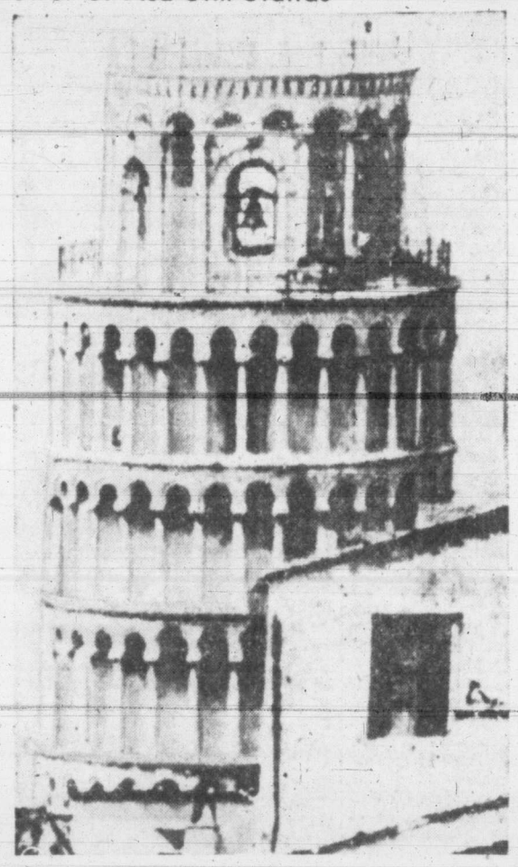

The 1st Canadian Army is now across the Vie River in real force, heading toward the Seine. Livarot was captured and Canadian armor now is providing a real threat to Lisieux.

Heavy rains which began during the night, turning the roads into muck, could only slow the Canadian advances and work to the Germans' advantage.

But Canadian artillery in open sight firing from positions gained through the capture of Falaise was slaughtering German troops herded along the Falaise-Chambois barrier like frightened cattle in a pen.

"The job of liquidating the pocket is continuing. It is being reduced hourly," said a Canadian officer.

Normandy Battle May Shorten War

By LYNN HEINZERLING
WITH THE 8TH ARMY NEAR FLORENCE (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill told a brigade of bronzed Canadian tankmen Sunday that the great battle raging in Normandy promises to bring the end of the war much nearer.

"I cannot predict an early end to the war, but I could not guarantee against it ending sooner than we have allowed ourselves to hope," said the Prime Minister as he faced a great circle of fighting men backed by their Sherman tanks not far from the front lines.

According to evidence they failed to report July 30 when a forest fire threatened the Nelson watershed.

Wants Colonies Back

ROME (AP) — Count Carlo Sforza, Italian Minister without Portfolio, demanded today the Allies permit Italy to retain her colonies after the war unless other countries are willing to give up theirs and place them under an international administration. Sforza, who spoke at a public meeting attended by Premier Ivanoe Bonomi and members of his cabinet, apparently did not include Ethiopia or the Dodecanese islands in Italy's colonial claims.

Churchill-Roosevelt Meeting May Wait Till After Election

By C. R. BLACKBURN

WASHINGTON (CP)—A conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill is in the planning stage, the time and place depending upon the fortunes of war.

Because of the forthcoming presidential elections, Mr. Roosevelt probably would prefer to delay his projected visit to the European fronts until after the voting.

But if the situation requires that he meet Mr. Churchill before that time (Nov. 7) it is believed the conference would be held at some point where the President would not come into contact with large numbers of U.S. forces.

A year ago this month Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Churchill held their historic meeting in Quebec. Some observers here foresee the possibility of another meeting in Canada.

MAY BE CRITICIZED

For the President to go to Europe now would provoke great criticism from his political opponents. And if he did go to Britain it is virtually certain he would go into France if not to Italy, to visit U.S. troops.

Political opponents would claim that gave him an advantage over the Republican nominee, Thomas E. Dewey, in relation to the overseas soldier vote.

There is, however, the possibility that Mr. Dewey also would like to visit the forces in action and would be willing to have Mr. Roosevelt make such a trip if the same facilities were accorded the Republican candidate.

BACK FROM PACIFIC

The President has just returned from a Pacific trip which took him, however, no nearer the scenes of action than Honolulu and the Aleutians.

Mr. Churchill has visited the Normandy front and now is in Italy.

Both could meet with combined close knowledge of what is going forward in Europe and the Pacific.

At Quebec a year ago this month, Mr. Churchill said that his meetings with Mr. Roosevelt were so valuable they should never be separated by more than about three months.

Three months later they were meeting again in Cairo and Tehran, but they have not been together since. Illnesses of both leaders, coupled with other momentous circumstances such as the invasion of France, have contributed to delay a conference this year.

HON. RAY ATHERTON

SINCE THE EXCHANGE OF MINISTERS between this country and the great Republic on the south began in the late 1920's, the United States has signally honored this member of the British Commonwealth of Nations by assigning to Ottawa her most outstanding and experienced diplomats. Not only is this a tribute of high respect for this Dominion's position among the nations of the world—by reason of its unique geographical importance and its political and economic influence in international affairs—it is also a recognition of the co-operative and interpretive role which Canada has been permitted to play through long and intimate association with her neighbor.

With these impressive facts in mind, and apart altogether from the classic example of considerably more than a century of peace which propinquity, mutual understanding, and basic origins have enhanced through the years, the people of this capital city of British Columbia today are extending the most cordial of greetings to Hon. Ray Atherton, United States ambassador to Canada, who is now at the western end of a tour which has taken him to many parts of the Dominion. Our citizenry will assure him of their hope that his all-too-brief stay will be a pleasant one and that he will take back with him to his official residence in Ottawa friendly remembrances of his visit to this most westerly seat of government in the British Empire.

Any detailed allusion to our distinguished visitor would be superfluous in the light of the vast and varied experience which furnishes his background. His post-Harvard years, however, found Mr. Atherton a student of architecture in Paris, followed for a short while in the banking business, while his highly-successful climb up the diplomatic ladder began in 1917. Service in Tokyo, Peking, Athens, London, Sofia and Copenhagen has endowed him abundantly with the cosmopolite's outlook on life—the invaluable attribute to advancement in the ambassadorial realm. And his popularity in Ottawa bears striking witness to the fact that he possesses all those fine human qualities which are so essential in high officers of state.

HISTORY IN THE MAKING

SOME PHRASES USED AT THE BRIEF preliminary session of the security conference in Washington today suggest that Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union are agreed upon the main essentials. They are definite on the necessity of "sovereign equality" of large and small nations alike. Secretary of State Cordell Hull called for commitments to use force when necessary, saying it "must be available promptly, in adequate measure, and with certainty." Russian ambassador Andrei Gromyko likewise emphasized the need for force "capable of preventing a recurrence of world war," and expects the present exploratory discussions to bring "positive results." Britain's Sir Alexander Cadogan urged speed in the deliberations, force for the eventual security organization, and "fair treatment of small nations." When the main business of the gathering begins tomorrow, therefore, the various representatives should be able to get off to an auspicious start.

HIS ONE-MAN WAR

IN THIS NEWSPAPER LAST TUESDAY we published a picture of Chief Radioman George Ray Tweed of Portland, Oregon, who was rescued on Guam on July 10, after hiding from the Jap invaders since December 10, 1941—a period of 31 months. Until the Nipponese forced his country into the war, Tweed was a peacetime navy man, living a comfortable life on this United States island territory in the Pacific. He had a house to live in; his wife and children had been with him for more than two years before Pearl Harbor. As the war clouds threatened, however, he had sent his family back to his native land. Then the Japs arrived; in a few hours George Tweed's life underwent a fantastic transformation from civilian to savagery. His case may be unique in this war.

For two and a half years Tweed, a civilized man past 40, accustomed to comfort, drank rainwater and ate what he could forage at night. He slept under trees or in caves. In all that time he was constantly on the move, outrunning and outguessing his pursuers, hiding when he could, never staying long in one place. For George Tweed was the last survivor of that ill-fated Guam garrison. All the others had been killed or captured. Tweed became a challenge and embarrassment to the Japs. They put a price on his head. They hunted him in packs. One hundred days went by—two hundred, five hundred, eight hundred. Days of watching and listening, of hiding, fleeing, resting when he could, hunting food at night. Finally, to save face, the Japs declared George Tweed officially dead last April.

Although the world roared away from the Portland radioman on that tragic day of December, 1941, Tweed never doubted that his countrymen would come back to Guam. His job from then on was to fight to exist and to win his private war with the Japs; and for all he knew, after learning of the disaster at Pearl Harbor, the enemy might have kept straight on to the mainland of the United States.

There is a lesson in Tweed's fortitude and belief in the right that all of us might remember when we are tempted to grumble about the price of this or that, about the things this horrible war obliges us to go without, or the little inconveniences to which Adolf Hitler's initial madness consigned us. And our neighbors have the right to tell their Jeremiahs that there is little danger of a country which produces George Tweeds going to the eternal bow-wows. His is one of the few gripping narratives which have come to light. The historian will probably have many more to record when he sits down to his monumental task.

AUSTRALIA TAKES NO CHANCES

FOUR OF THE SIX AUSTRALIAN states defeated a referendum on Saturday whose approval would have resulted in the surrender of certain fundamental rights to the national Parliament for a period of five years. Fourteen proposals involved the Dominion's reconstruction program—including jurisdiction over employment, profiteering, prices and other related subjects. Only Victoria and Southern Australia signified their willingness to accede to the Curtin government's program. And the administration's opponents are jubilant; they regard the verdict as a serious rebuff to the federal Prime Minister.

Former Prime Minister R. G. Menzies interprets it as a clear warning that "democratic liberalism is not dead and that wartime controls will not be a permanent feature of our lives"—although, incidentally, he does not see in the majority decision a permanent objection to constitutional revision. As the campaign drew to a conclusion, however, he observed: "At every referendum on amendment of the Australian constitution I can remember, orators from a thousand platforms have displayed an almost diseased ingenuity in explaining the calamitous things the Commonwealth Parliament could do if it had the power to deal with matters now reserved to the states."

What the plethora of speeches preceding Saturday's vote has unquestionably revealed is that state loyalties are still intense, and that it is immensely difficult to divest any discussion of constitutional requirements from party feeling. Both former Premiers Menzies and Fadden opposed the referendum, as well as Mr. William Morris Hughes, who was Prime Minister during the first Great War. Roman Catholic Archbishop Manning, on the other hand, asked for an affirmative vote.

Mr. Menzies' main argument was that the government's present wartime controls would extend far enough into the postwar period to enable a transition to peace to be effected smoothly. By granting the powers sought, however, all substantial limitations on its authority would be removed. So that while the government might guarantee full employment after the war, it would be more likely to fulfil that pledge by continuing wartime control of manpower and likewise deny a man's right to choose his own job. And Mr. Menzies feared that it would "further use the powers against business to implement the Labor policy of socialization of commerce and industry." Countering this argument, Mr. Curtin pointed out that since the referendum put a time limit on such additional centralization as the proposal involved, the electors would have ample opportunity to pass judgment on the government's use of its power before the expiry date in 1950.

The result of the referendum, nevertheless, is not surprising. More than two years ago, the states vacated the income tax field—as the provinces of Canada had done—but when they were threatened with further encroachments, they rose up in their wrath and effectively discouraged the then contemplated federal action. And not even Mr. Curtin's assurance that there would be neither conscription of labor nor socialization of industry appeared to influence the majority of the voters on Saturday.

MR. HOUDE'S 'PLANS'

BACK FROM FOUR YEARS AS A GUEST of the government in return for his gratuitous advice to Montrealers to ignore registration regulations, Mr. Camillien Houde, once mayor of Canada's eastern metropolis, says he has no immediate plans for himself, "but for the nation—yes." What these are, of course, he did not reveal. The public will be informed "at the proper time, possibly at a public meeting."

Mr. Houde has returned from an experience which few men in Canada of his standing have undergone. He could have had no illusions when he defied the law of his country and invited others to follow his example; he knew he was challenging authority at one of the darkest moments in the history of the British Commonwealth—a critical testing time for Canada in her role at Britain's side. One can hope that during the period of his enforced absence from his family, his city, and his office he has acquired a mellower concept of his country's responsibilities as a free partner in a great association of progressive states—and of his own as a citizen.

But there would appear to be a somewhat grandiose implication in Mr. Houde's suggestion that he has "plans for the nation." Fortunately for the rest of us, perhaps, the plans of one private individual, even though their author be a former mayor of Montreal, are not calculated to disturb our national equilibrium.

Time reports General Montgomery as saying the war could not possibly last longer than 1948, because by then "we will have run out of paper." We would rate Hitler's generals as a more critical factor. At the rate he is doing them in, we would say he will run out of them long before 1948.

Loose Ends

ALONG THE ONCE-GAY RIVIERA

THE INVADED COAST of southern France—the 140-mile bulge into the Mediterranean between Marseille on the Gulf of Lyon and Nice on the Gulf of Genoa—is a narrow strip with the foothills of the Alps in its rear. Several highways, that cut through the mountains to the north and northwest, are helping the Allies encircle Toulon and Marseille, the principal German-occupied ports on the coast, and reach the lower Rhone valley to advance up the Rhone-Saone basin or westward over the Central Plateau toward Brittany.

This narrow coast is well known to pre-war tourists because it was a favorite resort and an area of great historical interest. Monte Carlo, 10 miles east of Nice, is also well known to some Canadians. The noted once-gay Riviera, the coast of the Gulf of Genoa, stretches from Nice to Spezzia, Italy.

An excellent scenic highway, the Alps Road or Route des Alpes, was constructed within the past two decades, leading northward from Nice some 150 miles to Grenoble and on to Lyon. Another highway extends northwestwardly from Cannes some 40 miles to Castellane on the Verdon River, a tributary of the Rhone, northward 25 miles to Digne, then westward about 15 miles to connect with the main highway up the Rhone valley. A west-east road connects these two highways, leaving the Castellane-Digne road between those two cities. Still another road leads from St. Raphael on the coast, passing through Frejus and Draguignan to Castellane.

From Draguignan a road extends to the west to Avignon on the Rhone, some 40 miles from its principal mouth, where it empties into the Mediterranean. This highway crosses a road from Marseille to Grenoble, which may be used in an attack on the great port from the north. In addition, the entire area is criss-crossed with winding country roads which the Allies will find of considerable help in dry weather.

The principal cities on the invaded coast, beginning with Marseille and proceeding eastwardly, are Toulon, the great French naval port under whose waters many French war vessels found repose, and beyond it Hyeres, St. Tropez, Frejus, St. Raphael, Cannes, Antibes and Nice. Toulon is 40 miles from Marseille. Bormos, one invasion centre, is 25 miles east of Toulon. Another reported invasion coast is on the shores of the Gulf of Frejus, west of the city of that name. Still another was probably near Antibes, some 10 miles west of Nice, and the entrance to the Route des Alpes to the north.

Marseille has one of the best and greatest of the harbors of France. Toulon was the great French Mediterranean naval port with excellent facilities. Cannes has a good harbor for smaller steamships. St. Raphael and Antibes have small harbors. Frejus was an important port in ancient Roman days, but its harbor is now filled with alluvial deposits. Nice is a port for Mediterranean steamers.

THE TRAVELER

To the last hill he came and climbed, and weary
Stood on its crest at last, and looking down,
Where he had thought to see the tiled steeple
Of a huddled market-town,
Or fields of corn and rye set next each other,
Or a row of poplars marching silently,
Or a windmill clacking against the sky, or a sheepfold,
Or the foamless fathomless sea—
He saw the crag fall sheer and fall forever:
Faint wisps of milky vapor swirled and clung
To the cliff-edge; but below, beyond, was nothing.
The words failed on his tongue—
And he stood, and strove, and said, "I have fared farther
Than ever man followed or bird flew;
And nothing I found was fair enough to stay me—
Neither the old or new.
Always beyond beauty I sought beauty—
Always beyond bright shore a brighter shore:
Is there no more," he said, and his voice faltered,
Saying, "Is there no more?"
Saying, "This is the end?" and softly, softly
As the voice of the known and loved, as the voice of a friend,
Echo answered through the darkness, saying "This is the end."

'A GREAT MAN, DE GAULLE'

Ralph Allen in Toronto Globe and Mail

NORMANDY.

Q: What will de Gaulle's chances be in France's first postwar election?

On the day Gen. de Gaulle spoke in Bayeux, I stood near the dais beside a young and, I believe, intelligent Frenchman who had brought his wife and small daughter to take part in this first formal ceremony of liberation.

No one's shouts of greeting were more heartfelt than his. He turned to me and said: "A great man, de Gaulle."

While we waited for the general to begin speaking I asked the young man about Petain. "A fine man," he said, "much misunderstood by you people, but a fine man for France, Vive de Gaulle!"

The man raised his daughter higher on his shoulder. Then he turned again and said: "And Giraud. I think Giraud is the finest man of all. Vive de Gaulle!"

News Analysis—The War Today

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The German disaster in western Europe has intensified over the week-end, both in the Paris theatre and in southern France.

One of the most notable developments is the establishment of a bridgehead across the Seine at Mantes, 25 miles northwest of the capital, by one of Lt.-Gen. Patton's armored columns. This was achieved while other U.S. units continued their sweep around the south of Paris, thus threatening to flank the nerve centre of France.

The cutting of the Seine at Mantes is of vast importance strategically. It means that the remnants of Nazi Field Marshal von Kluge's battered 7th Army, which have been retreating toward the Seine from the Normandy defeat, now are in a huge bowl-shaped trap whose lid is the river and a short stretch of coast south-west of the Seine's mouth.

Since all the bridges have been destroyed by the Allied air forces, the only means the Nazis have of escaping is by barges and our bombers are circling the sky ready to pounce on them. Sunday night German troops tried to cross the Seine at several points between Elbeuf—near Rouen—and the sea under cover of darkness, but R.A.F. planes got at them.

While this presents a grim picture we shouldn't assume that none of the Germans can escape. Probably considerable numbers already have made the crossing and others are likely to do so.

With Paris virtually flanked, the Nazis will have difficulty in defending any part of the line of the Seine. If they can't hold this line they will have to beat a retreat northward, taking their English Channel forces with them. In short, the Germans are in a nasty predicament which presages a wholesale withdrawal to their inner defences on the Rhine.

Proof that there's still plenty of fight left in the Hitlerites came Monday night when the forces which are surrounded in the Falaise trap in Normandy made a determined attempt to break out. The Canadians took them on, and a fierce battle raged throughout the night, with heavy casualties on both sides. Dawn found the Canadians the victors and today the trapped troops are under terrible fire from rocket-firing Typhoons and Canadian artillery.

THIS WAR—FOUR YEARS AGO

Aug. 21, 1940—Italian troops reported massing along Greece's western frontier as Fascist press attacked Greek government for alleged mistreatment of Albanian minorities. Canadian National Registration ended with an estimated 8,000,000 men and women over 16 having filled out forms.

YOU'LL BE SORRY if you do not fill that bin now. With the services calling for every able-bodied man available, a serious labor situation will exist next winter in the retail Coal trade. We will do our part, but you must help. Don't wish you had Ordered today!

ENDURING FAME

From Cleveland Press

Miss Mae West came back to Broadway from Hollywood as the author and star of a costume play about Imperial Russia. Its title was "Catherine Was Great." According to the critics, Catherine may have been, but the play wasn't.

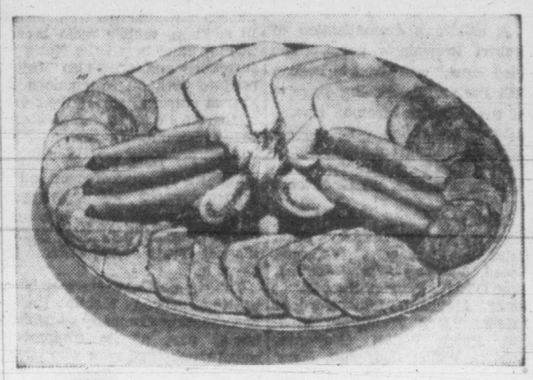

Even so, Miss West may take heart, for her place in history is secure. Inflated life jackets will surely continue to bear her name when the names of the critics who panned her are long forgotten.

Picnic Platters

Swift's Table-Ready Meats are the perfect answer to the picnic problem

Very few of us have either the time or the inclination these days to make the elaborate preparation our parents considered essential for a picnic. And yet the occasional meal out of doors—even if it be only in one's backyard—is good for health, appetite and morale too. So if you feel the picnic urge coming on, just slip over to your neighbourhood store and make your selection from the wide array there of Swift's Premium Table-Ready Meats. Add a crisp lettuce or two, a bottle of home made pickles, a paper container of potato salad—you can buy it or make your own, see panel—and a loaf of bread . . . and you're all set for an enjoyable out-door meal with no more fuss 'n' feathers.

P.S.—Don't forget the salt!

AFTER ALL—
You Don't Need to go This Far

DO NERVOUS PEOPLE irritate you? Do you sometimes think you'd like to sentence them to hard labor for life? Not really, of course—it would be better to find out the cause of the nervousness . . . with some people it is the result of drinking tea and coffee.

A GAG is even less polite than saying "shut up!" And neither would be necessary if the lady would avoid the tea and coffee that are keeping her nervous and restless. She should drink Postum, as millions of people do—with real benefit to health.

MANY A MAN who seems dumb is really only dumb about his mealtime beverages. If he'd leave tea and coffee alone—and drink healthful, delicious Postum—he wouldn't suffer from caffein-nerves. So many people should not drink beverages containing caffein.

POSTUM is a hearty-flavored drink, without a trace of caffein or any other drug. Every member of the family can drink and enjoy it. So easily prepared, too—right in the cup just by adding boiling water or hot milk. Economical—costs less than 1¢ per cup.

U.S. Ambassador Has Busy Day In Victoria

Hon. Ray Atherton, United States Ambassador to Canada, started at 9 today on a round of visits to navy and army establishments near Victoria.

He left Government House accompanied by Robert L. Smyth, United States Consul here, and Lt.-Cmdr. Hew Paterson, A.D.C. to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

At the Esquimalt naval base he was greeted by Capt. P. B. German, R.C.N., naval officer in charge there, and Cmdr. A. R. E. Coleman, D.S.O., R.C.N.R., who took him through the naval barracks, showed him the drydock and accompanied him to the Naval College at Royal Roads, where the party was greeted by Capt. J. M. Grant, C.B.E., R.C.N., commanding officer.

At H.M.C.S. Naden the ambassador was welcomed by Cmdr. G. F. MacCrimmon, R.C.N.V.R., and the executive officer, Lt.-Cmdr. Montague Bridgeman, R.C.N.V.R. Mr. Atherton inspected the frigate St. Stephen, launched by Princess Juliana of the Netherlands and now in command of Lt.-Cmdr. Charles Peterson, R.C.N.R., of Victoria.

At Work Point Military Barracks the ambassador was welcomed by Lt.-Col. K. W. Hicks, acting fortress commander in the absence of Brig. J. F. Preston, M.C.

AT CATHEDRAL

After breakfast at Government House Sunday morning the ambassador and his wife, with Mr. and Mrs. Smyth, attended divine service at Christ Church Cathedral, where they were greeted on the steps by Dean Spencer Elliott, who took the service and preached. As the ambassadorial party was seated Organist Ernest Willoughby played the American National Anthem. Special prayers were offered for the President and Congress of the United States.

In his sermon Dean Elliott said: "We look forward to peace, but already there are signs that we shall pass from one kind of disturbance to another, unless we have peace in industry. It is not a pleasant prospect that as soon as victory is assured we are to begin a long series of strikes and live in a constant state of upheaval.

"It is not enough to say that we hate to be upset and that our own conveniences should be considered—we must plead for peace between man and man, with fair dealing on both sides. Already there are disturbing influences at work between labor and management and appeals to baser passions of jealousy, selfishness, ill-feeling and bitterness. The business of the church is to establish the peace of God as the umpire. We make a mistake if we talk round things on the field, using curious words like delinquency, when the simple truth is that those who do not play ball should be ruled out from the beginning."

GOLF AT OAK BAY

Following Sunday luncheon at Government House the Ambassador went to Oak Bay to play golf with Governor Woodward, Premier John Hart and Mr. Smyth.

Mrs. Atherton and her children spent Sunday and today quietly with Mrs. Woodward and her daughters, enjoying the sunshine in the gardens of Government House. Mrs. Atherton visited the antique stores.

If there was time today the ambassador was to pay a call on the United States consulate in Belmont House, following his official call on Premier Hart at the Parliament Buildings.

A press conference was held this afternoon immediately following the Chamber of Commerce-Gyro Club-Canadian Club luncheon at the Empress Hotel, when the ambassador was guest speaker.

BABY TALK

Dear Miss Dix—My brother is over six feet tall, thoroughly masculine in appearance and conduct, the father of children, yet our mother persists in calling him "My Baby." Once in his high school days she called him "Babykins" in the presence of his football team and after that they taunted him by shouting "Babykins" at him. She even talks baby-talk to him. Naturally all this humiliates him and makes him seem ridiculous, but do what we will we can't induce her to stop it. Can you think of any way we can make her drop it?

BABY'S SISTER.

Answer: No. A mother who has no more sense of humor than yours seems to have is hopeless. But your brother is not the only one. I knew a man who was a veritable giant, whose mother called him "pitty sing" (for pretty thing) when he was an infant in the cradle and he writhed under the appellation as long as he lived.

Currie Thomson officiated and during the signing of the register Miss Jean Scott, organist, played for Miss Bette Mathison, who sang "At Dawning."

Given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Sgt. J. B. McCallum, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white bengaline with fitted bodice and a lace yoke. Her sleeves were finger-tip and her chapel veil fell from a coronet of orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a pearl and cameo necklace. Her bouquet was of red roses and white heather. Miss Myra Hodgson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a blue sheer with a blue net headpiece trimmed with pastel shaded velvet flowers. Her bouquet was Picardy gladioli and fern.

Gunner Alex Brown, R.C.A., was the best man and the usher was Cpl. A. Appleton. N. E. Plaxton proposed the toast to the bride. The bride's mother received with the bride and groom at a reception held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Plaxton, Holland Avenue. For traveling on her honeymoon to the mainland the bride wore a Queen's blue silk dress, beige coat with a wolf collar and a navy hat and accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of roses. On their return, Sgt. and Mrs. Soderberg will reside at Delmar Avenue.

The groom was attended by Pte. Liebrech.

A reception for about 30 guests was held at the home of Miss D. E. Moore, 1485 Fort Street. Mr. A. W. Semple gave two recitations, both applicable to the occasion.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Semple, Mrs. Gold, Mrs. Robertson, Miss D. Harris and Joan Semple.

Before leaving for Vancouver, where the honeymoon is being spent, Miss Moore played Mendelsohn's "Wedding March."

Mr. and Mrs. Manson will reside in Victoria.

Victorian Pipes Scottish Into Town

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIAN 1ST ARMY IN FRANCE (CP)—The town of Vaucelles over the muddy Orne River from Caen had just been captured when "Wee Andy" McGeorge of Victoria marched into the rubbled-littered streets with his regiment, the Canadian Scottish.

"Wee Andy" is a piper in the regimental band. And there in ruined, battered Vaucelles, with the smoke of battle drifting from the streets, he played Highland airs for the French people who gathered around him incredulously.

He played "Blue Bonnets," the regimental march, "Highland Laddie," "Road to the Isles" and "Bonny Dundee." The French people listened to the skirl of the pipes. They did not applaud. They did not know what to think.

Then "Wee Andy" had a swell idea. He took a deep breath and skirled the ringing chorus of the "Marseillaise."

In a moment the crowd was cheering and shouting. It was a strange sound to French ears—the "Marseillaise" played on the pipes—but it still was their national anthem.

As "Wee Andy" finished they overwhelmed him with more applause and into their homes he went to share their hospitality.

Jap Cruiser Bagged By U.S. Bomber

The aircraft made four bombing runs over the cruiser, scoring three direct hits and one probable.

American Shoppers Pack Stores for China and Linen

While American visitors milled by tens and twenties outside Victoria's china and linen shops, in most instances open only a fraction of their normal business hours, today proprietors told of merchandise shortages that kept business to last year's level despite the increase in tourists.

A number of smart woolen goods shops found themselves in the same position with regard to shortages.

"We have not had a shipment of china since D-day," said S. A. Reynolds, proprietor of Period Arts, Victoria. "Our business is equal to that of last year because of shortage of stock and we have no assurance of goods for Christmas.

"In prewar years, we were open from 9 in the morning until 10 at night; now we are open four and a half hours a day. We have to retard sales. Factories in England send out small shipments for the purpose of keeping their connections open during the war years."

To reports of Americans coming into shops and purchasing luxury items at tremendous cost, Mr. Reynolds paid tribute to the taste and discrimination of United States buyers.

"The average American girl is educated in the matter of household furnishings and she knows fine makes of china. She doesn't buy a lot but acquires good merchandise," he said.

Manager of another china shop said he found it difficult to understand why local people did not take advantage of the opportunities at their doorstep of purchasing fine china, when Americans traveled thousands of miles to procure goods available in Victoria.

Tourists streaming up Government Street in search of fine linens found one shop with its doors closed Friday and a sign reading that it was open only one hour of the day.

"Lack of merchandise has kept our business to the same level as last year," one woolen goods man said.

THE Home Nurse

HELP INJURED VETERAN TRYING TO OVERCOME HIS HANDICAP

By MARY BEARD
Director, Nursing Service, Red Cross

Let us suppose that you, a potential home nurse, have a soldier, sailor or marine in your family, who has lost an arm, a leg, or an eye, and you know he is soon to be released from the hospital and consigned to your care. How are you going to meet this situation?

Remember that no matter how badly injured a man may be physically, he is the same man who went away, and wants to be so considered by his family and friends. He is likely to be very sensitive about his handicap, but you can help him to overcome this sensitivity, by treating him as though there were nothing unusual about him, and as if you were not even aware of his injuries.

Does that sound hard and unsympathetic? On the contrary, it is the most considerate and kind thing you can do for him, for it will give him the assurance he needs that you have the same confidence in his ability that you always had, or more.

NO REMINDERS

Be natural in talking to him, but don't talk about the war, the reasons for it, nor the results of it. He needs no reminders. He is usually tired of the subject and wants to forget it, so don't ask him any questions. When the time comes that he wants to discuss his experience, listen to him, sympathetically, but don't commiserate with him, or bemoan his fate. His peace of mind will be much better if he accepts the idea that he has suffered no more than millions of others.

Your assistance is needed to help the injured veteran concentrate on overcoming his handicap and getting back into useful activity as soon as possible, not on feeling sorry for himself. He must begin to build immediately on what he has left and waste no time in thinking of what he has lost.

Roosevelt Leading In 26 States, Dewey In 19

By American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J. — Surveys just completed among civilian voters in the five important border states show Thomas E. Dewey leading in one, Missouri, and Franklin D. Roosevelt leading in the other four, Kentucky, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Maryland.

Inclusive of today's figures, the institute has published reports on the political situation in 45 of the 48 states. Roosevelt has been found leading in 26 states with 248 electoral votes, and Thomas E. Dewey in 19 states with 229 electoral votes. It takes 266 to win.

The remaining three states, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, with a total of 54 electoral votes, will be reported later. Missouri, largest of the border states in terms of electoral votes, is the home of Senator Harry S. Truman, President Roosevelt's vice-presidential running mate.

The situation in the border states is reflected in institute balloting up to the middle of last week. Each voter was asked how he would vote if the presidential election were being held today.

The results:

Missouri—Dewey, 51%; Roosevelt, 49%.

Kentucky — Roosevelt, 54%; Dewey, 46.

Oklahoma — Roosevelt, 51%; Dewey, 49%.

West Virginia — Roosevelt, 53%; Dewey, 47%.

Maryland — Roosevlt, 52%; Dewey, 48%.

As compared to the 1940 presidential election, Roosevelt shows a loss of three percentage points in Missouri, seven in Oklahoma and Maryland, four in West Virginia, and four in Kentucky.

New state-by-state polls will be conducted at periodic intervals between now and election day. These surveys will reflect any changes of sentiment brought about by events and by the campaign itself.

It should be borne in mind that the institute's present state-by-state reports reflect the situation only at this stage in the campaign, and do not in any sense constitute a forecast of how each state will go in the election in two and a half months from now.

Research transformed Cast Iron

ALTHOUGH IT HAD BEEN PROVED by laboratory experiments that the quality of cast iron could be vastly improved by the addition of Nickel, it remained for the Canadian Nickel industry to lead the way in putting this knowledge to commercial use.

In 1921 Nickel investigators began intensive laboratory research on cast iron. They reviewed previous experiments carried on by other scientists. They made countless experiments of their own. They proved that cast iron could be made stronger, more uniform in texture and more resistant to corrosion and wear by adding Nickel. They sent out this information to buyers of castings. They instructed foundries how to use Nickel to get best results.

So Nickel alloy iron was adopted for scores of new uses. Another new market for Nickel had been developed to take the place of war markets wiped out in 1918.

Today Canadian Nickel is again diverted to war purposes, and again the industry looks to the future with confidence. Plans are ready to develop and expand old and new peacetime markets, so that the Nickel industry may continue, through its own initiative and enterprise, to make still greater contributions to Canada's welfare.

Lionel W. Huntington, 59, formerly of Cowichan Bay, died in England in July after a short illness, friends here have been advised.

Mr. and Mrs. Huntington were residents of Cowichan Bay from 1918 to 1931, frequently coming to Victoria during that time, often renting a home in the city for the winter months. In England recently he had been living at Royal Mansions, England.

Besides his wife, formerly Beth Roberts of Vancouver, Mr. Huntington leaves two sons, one in the R.A.F. and one studying at Eton. Another son, Lieut. T. W. Huntington, with the Grenadier Guards, was killed in action in Italy last December.

Fire Does $250 Damage When Iron Left On

Damage estimated at $250 was caused by a fire Saturday afternoon which started in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Dayley, 951 Tattersall Drive, when an electric iron was left plugged in and folded into a wall behind an ironing board, Saanich fire department reports.

Called to the house by neighbors, firemen managed to confine the fire to one room and a linen cupboard but were forced to make a hole in the roof to let out heavy smoke which had collected in the upstairs part of the house so they might be sure there was no fire there. Occupants of the house were not in at the time of the fire.

'Miss Pat' Becomes R.C.A.F. Mascot

—R.C.A.F. Photograph by Flt. Sgt. Hugh Walter.

Director S. Sylvan Simon turns Miss Patricia (to be known as "Pat"), daughter of Lassie, over to Air Vice-Marshal L. V. Heakes, Air Officer Commanding Western Air Command. Group Capt. D. B. Hobbs, D.S.O., D.S.C. and Bar, O.C. of the R.C.A.F. Station at Pat Bay, is in the background.

Induction of "Miss Patricia," formerly known as Lassie II into the Royal Canadian Air Force was the highlight of a ceremony on the M-G-M lot at the airfield at Patricia Bay Saturday.

The 14-week-old daughter of the famed movie dog, Lassie who is here for the filming of "Son of Lassie", was presented to Western Air Command in appreciation of the co-operation of the R.C.A.F. in the filming of the picture, and she has now become the official mascot of the Air Force here.

She was re-named by popular vote of the airmen and airwomen on the station, and officially christened by Group Capt. D. B. Hobbs, D.S.O., D.S.C. and Bar, O.C. of the station after Cpl. Helen Nelson, W.D., and Cpl. N. E. Croswell informed him the name that has been chosen by station personnel.

The ceremony opened shortly after 2 in the afternoon with the entire station personnel, except a skeleton crew left in charge of the station, marched onto the parade ground to the music of the R.C.A.F. band from Vancouver.

Wing Cmdr. F. T. S. Sehl introduced director S. Sylvan Simon to Air Vice-Marshal L. V. Heakes, and Mr. Simon introduced Lassie and Rudd Weatherwax to the parade. To the delight of the airmen and airwomen, Lassie made a deep bow to the three sides of the hollow square and to the Air Vice-Marshal, and then did a few tricks at the command of Mr. Weatherwax.

Before presenting the puppy, Mr. Simon announced that M-G-M was donating $1,000 to the Station Airmen's Fund, to help with the purchase of a 35-mm projection unit. "Miss Patricia," or "Pat" as she will be called, was then led out and presented to the Air Vice-Marshal.

Unused, as yet, to the music of the band Pat was badly frightened, so Air Vice-Marshal Heakes picked her up in his arms while he thanked the movie company for the mascot, and said how delighted he was to accept her on behalf of Western Air Command.

Group Capt. Hobbs was then given the puppy's leash and he announced that she would be taken immediately over to the Records Office, duly documented as a full member of the R.C.A.F. and issued quarters and rations. William McNally, S.P.C.A. official with the company, has given the Air Force a complete feeding schedule for the puppy so that she will grow up into as beautiful a dog as her father, Lassie, is.

When the band played "Star Spangled Banner' in honor of the American guests at the conclusion of the ceremony, the puppy again became frightened, so Mr. Weatherwax stooped and gathered her up in his arms to quieten her. As the parade marched off the two corporals, with Pat, now dressed in a pennant that bears her name, marched at the head of the column. This will be Pat's official position in all future parades as mascot, and she "marched" very well considering it was her first time. Lassie also fell in step with the column.

There was some indecision as to the rank that should be given to Pat. Group Capt. Hobbs suggested that she might be made an A.C. which could stand for either Aircraftsman or Air Commodore. He said that as a member of the Air Force, she would have to abide by all the rules and regulations of the Force, but he was sure that they would do all they could to make her life happy.

Every member of the station personnel spoken to was completely delighted with the beautiful little puppy and for once Lassie found that he was not the main attraction. However, he didn't seem to mind taking a back seat to his daughter for once.

At the conclusion of the ceremony tea was served in the officers' mess which was attended by visitors and the actors with the movie company, including Peter Lawford, Leon Ames, Robert Lewis, Fred Glerman, Donald Curtis and Miss Fay Helm. Mrs. Sylvan Simon and Mrs. Herman Webber were also present.

As soon as the parade ground had been cleared the movie company went back to work taking air shots of take-offs and landings that will be used in the picture. As the weather was so fine Saturday it is expected that they will be able to move back to Christopher Point early this week.

Doreen Wilson Now Understudy In New York City

Doreen Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, formerly of the Russian Ballet School in Victoria, is understudying Helen Bliss, star of "Song of Norway," based on the life and music of Edvard Grieg, which opened at the Imperial Theatre, 45th and Broadway, in New York City today.

Miss Wilson, who appeared in many theatricals and light operas in Victoria before she went to Hollywood some years ago, played in "Song of Norway" during its recent successful appearances in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Her sister, Josephine, is now secretary to a movie director in Hollywood.

Their mother, now head of the B.C. School of Dancing in Vancouver, has been in charge all summer of the ballet and chorus ensemble in the Theatre under the Stars, which has been playing in Stanley Park and which has now transferred to Seattle for three weeks. She has been holidaying this week-end in Victoria and on Salt Spring Island.

To Hold Public Meeting On Rehabilitation Plans

Speaking on "What Does Rehabilitation Mean?," Major J. P. Simon will address a public meeting in the council chamber of the City Hall tonight at 8 under the auspices of the Citizens' Rehabilitation Council. Chairman of the meeting will be F. E. Winslow.

In order to interest Victoria citizens in what is being done for war veterans, officials said, more public meetings will be held in the future.

Andersson Defeats Haegg For 1,500 Metre Honors

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Arne Andersson, fleet-footed school teacher, defeated Gunder Haegg in the final of the 1,500-metre run for the Swedish championships Sunday in the Stockholm Stadium with the slow time of 3.49.6. Haegg, former holder of the world record for the mile, was clocked in 3.50.

Andersson's time was 6 6-10 seconds off the world record.

In the time trials Saturday, Haegg won one heat in 3.56.4, while Andersson took another in 3.58.8. The former also took the Swedish title in the 5,000 metres although his 14.32.2 was far off the record.

In Saturday's events, Haegg could do no better than 14 minutes, 32.2 seconds in winning the 5,000-metre race.

Boston Moves Within 3½ Games of Browns

Visions of an all-St. Louis world series for the first time in major league history may be just that—a vision.

The pennant-hungry Browns of St. Louis watched their first place lead dwindle to a mere 3½ games over Boston Red Sox as they bowed twice yesterday to the cellar-dwelling Washington Senators 4 to 2 and 12 to 1 to suffer their fourth straight defeat, their longest losing streak of the year.

The Red Sox became a pennant threat by vanquishing Cleveland Indians twice 8 to 6 and 11 to 4. They pounded out 26 hits in the twin bill, 16 of them in the night-cap.

Detroit Tigers joined the dog-fight for the flag by sweeping a pair from New York Yankees 4 to 3 and 9 to 8, taking over third place from the Yankees, only five games away from the Browns.

Dizzy Trout gained his 20th triumph in the nightcap as he helped his own cause with a two-run homer, his fourth of the season. Trout joins his teammate, Hal Newhouser, as the only 20-game winners in the majors.

Pittsburgh Pirates increased their second-place lead over Cincinnati Reds to two games by conquering Brooklyn Dodgers twice 10 to 7 and 7 to 1. Jim Russell hit a pinch-hit homer with the bases full in the seventh inning of the opener. Four Dodgers, Bobby Bragan, Luis Olmo, Whitlow Wyatt and acting-manager Charlie Dressen were banished from the games for arguing. They joined manager Leo Durocher, suspended Saturday for five days.

After losing the opener, 7 to 4 to Chicago Cubs for their 13th straight defeat, New York Giants behind Bill Voiselle's five-hit pitching, ended their slump, winning 3 to 1.

Rookie Woody Rich pitched Boston Braves to a 5 to 3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals for his first National League victory, after the Cards had drubbed the braves 15 to 5 in the opener.

Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox divided a twin bill, the sox winning the opener 3 to 2 and the A's the aftermath, 8 to 3.

Cincinnati Reds defeated Philadelphia Phillies 3 to 2 in a 12-inning opener of a twin bill. The Phils won the second game, 4 to 1.

Hamilton Upsets Bryon Nelson in Pro Golf Final

SPOKANE, Wash (AP) — Bob Hamilton of Evansville, Ind., won the 1944 United States Professional Golfers' Association golf championship Sunday when he defeated Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., 1 up in the 36-hole finals at the Manito course.

The reversal that saw Nelson, a 10 to 1 favorite, beaten by such a newcomer, was the most surprising since the big links event exclusively for the professionals was founded in 1916.

Hamilton trimmed an opponent who played 196 holes in 30 under par during the seven-day competition. If the tournament had been at medal play, Nelson would have spread-eagled the field.

At match play the United States' ranking star bowed out, but he contributed heavily to his own defeat. He three-putted the 9th, 16th and 29th holes to lose those three. In addition, he continually missed others on the green which he usually taps in without difficulty when at peak form.

Pavot, Paperboy Register Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Pavot, unbeaten claimant to the 1944 juvenile championship, and Paperboy, a six-year-old bay gelding so little regarded by the handicappers that he was the lightweight in the $50,000 added Saratoga Handicap, provided the thrills for 37,507 Belmont Park race fans Saturday.

Pavor's triumph came in the fourth race, the $10,000 added Grand Union Hotel Stakes.

It was Pavot's day until Paperboy jumped out of the starting gate to lead all the way in the richest race the Saratoga meeting has known. It was worth $35,850 to the son of Payrus-Bright Folly, owned by the W.L. Ranch.

Paperbody showed his heels to what was supposed to be the greatest field of handicap horses to face the starter this year. Expertly handled by jockey Warren Mehrtens, he paid his backers $36.80, $15.10 and $8.60 across the board.

Alex Barth came in second, a half length back of the winner. Eric Guerin's mount paid $7.10 and $5.30. Paperboy's time for the 1¼ miles was 2.02 1-5.

Bobby Permane brought Bolingbroke in third 1½ lengths behind Alex Barth.

ACTION! CAMERA! DAYLIGHT!—Stanley Hack slides blindly into third in cloud of dust. Ball in glove, Luis Olmo makes futile stab. Umpire is George Magerkurth. Olmo got even with 11th inning single giving Brooklyn Dodgers 7 to 6 decision over Chicago Cubs. Night baseball deprives game of this type of action picture. There are no lights at Wrigley Field.

CHATTING to Ralph Whaley in the snake room at Oak Bay following his victory in the grand championship of the seniors' golf tournament I asked the Seattle star for his impressions following his first appearance in the event that attracts links veterans from all sections of the Pacific Northwest to this city every summer. "Finest tournament I have ever played in," declared big Ralph. "I've had more fun and more companionship with men of my own age than in any other competition in which I have competed since I first took up golf. With only 18 holes a day and, with everybody thinking more about having a good time than winning, the seniors' tournament has something you will never find in any other golfing event. Then again in the seniors if you play your own game of golf you'll win. There is no chance of some fellow burning up the course to take the honors such as is often the case in an amateur or open tournament."

WHALEY has a good reason for his never getting jittery during a golf match. "I pitched baseball for 15 years and during that time was under pressure hundreds of times with a 3 and 2 count on a batter," he said. "I sure learned what it is to compete under pressure and that training has certainly stood me well in golf. No matter how tough the situation becomes I am able to remain relaxed and you can really get what an advantage that can be in a real close match."

WATCHING pitchers in the local ball league perform during the current season and especially since southpaw Tony Maze joined the Army club and started a string of strikeouts, I was reminded of some of the pitching feats of a Victoria hurler back around 1904. I refer to the late Jimmy Holness, who played for Victoria against the pick of the clubs in the Pacific Northwest. Holness was at his peak over about a four-year period and in that time established a record that I doubt will ever be equalled. He defeated teams from Tacoma, Wenatchee, Everett, Puyallup and the University of Washington and in the process had a remarkable strikeout record. In a string of seven games Holness fanned 96 and gave up only five bases on balls. That gives one an idea of his marvelous control. Battery mate for Holness at that time was Bernie Schwengers.

SPEAKING of baseball I have some more news on Stan Curry, former southpaw hurler with the local Army nine, who is really burning up the Halifax League this season. The other evening Curry hurled the Army entry to a 4 to 2 win over the R.C.A.F. entry and just about did it all by himself.

HERE'S WHAT one sports writer had to say about Curry's performance: "Curry turned in a superb exhibition. His mates tried hard to toss it away but Stan stoutly refused to have any part of it. His fast one was smoking as it rippled through the strike zone and his curves were cute and nicely controlled. When a fellow pitches four-hit ball he's entitled to something. When he's bogged down by six bobbles by his unappreciative mates and has to do almost all the work himself—well, he was entitled to the applause that came from the stands, from the spectators who know and appreciate a good job when they see one."

Limit Ticket Sales For Baseball Series

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the two St. Louis baseball clubs meet in the world series this year, only the fans living in the immediate vicinity of that city would be eligible to buy world series tickets under a plan to be proposed by the office of defence transportation.

For that matter, an O.D.T. spokesman said Sunday, regardless of which two teams win league pennants, club officials will be requested to limit sales of series tickets to persons who live in or near the teams' home communities.

No special trains or buses, he said, will be provided for the series. Restrictions in effect during the regular season covering the travel of major league teams will be continued. These prohibit pullman reservations more than 24 hours ahead.

Women's Fastball

In a women's division fastball game Sunday, Victoria Box and Paper defeated the Unity, 10 to 9. Down 10 to 7 in the ninth the Unitys scored a pair of runs on home runs by Murry and Pettigrew, but the next three batters went down in order. Win moved the Box and Paper girls into a second place tie with the Sports Club.

V.M.D.-Army Win Baseball

Play Again Tonight

With their series deadlocked at one win apiece, as the result of a thrilling 11-inning 7-to-5 Victoria Machinery Depot victory Saturday afternoon, the shipbuilders and Navy will hook up in the all-important third engagement of their best-of-five city baseball championship series semifinal at the Athletic Park tonight. Starting time is 6.15.

Navy are expected to come back with their number one flinger, Jimmy Crosato, winner over the V.M.D. 2 to 1 in the opener. Veteran Stan Douglas, who lasted less than two innings Saturday, is expected to get another chance for the league winners.

In the evening game Saturday, the Army knocked over the R.C.A.F. 9 to 3 for their second straight triumph and a strangle hold on their semifinal. These clubs will meet again Wednesday night with the troops solid favorites to take the playoff three straight.

Game Cy Shillito took the big share of the honors in the extra-inning win of the V.M.D. Answering a hurry-up call from playing coach Laurel Harney in the second inning after the Navy had got to Douglas for three runs, Shillito, with only two days rest, toiled out on the mound for nine innings, giving up 10 hits but only two runs. Shillito received airtight support in the field with the V.M.D. club credited with an errorless exhibition.

USE 3 PITCHERS

Three hurlers worked for the Navy. Lefty Pawluk opened and was chased to the showers in the second after allowing four hits for a like number of runs, to be replaced by Jimmy Ingamells, who hurled winning baseball until he tired, to be replaced in the 10th by Johnson with the score tied 5 to 5. Johnson was charged with the defeat.

V.M.D. were outhit 14 to 10.

After the shipyarders had moved into a 4-to-0 lead in the second, the Navy came back with three in their half of the inning. The sailors pushed across two more runs in the sixth on a double by Ingamells and a single by Latiff. V.M.D. squeezed across the tying counter in the seventh, when Patterson singled, went to second on an error and scored on Barnswell's single through the middle.

With the clubs under terrific pressure it was the Navy who finally broke under the strain, and relief hurler Johnson was mainly responsible for his own defeat. After Work had reached first when Johnson allowed his weak roller to go through him, the runner was advanced to second on a wild pitch. Patterson walked. Duffy was thrown out on a roller in front of the plate, both runners moving up on the bags. With orders from the bench to give Strouiger an intentional walk, Johnson threw one too close to the plate and the V.M.D. second baseman hit a long fly to Bruce that allowed Work to score after the catch. Patterson, who had moved down to third, crossed the plate on another wild pitch.

In addition to turning in a neat pitching trick for the Navy, Ingamells batted in three of their five runs with a trio of hits in four trips to the plate. They represented more base knocks than he got in the entire league schedule. Strouiger was top man for the V.M.D. with two for three.

Too much hitting power again was the story in the Army-R.C.A.F. game. After the Flyers, still forced to field a patched-up lineup owing to the absence of four regulars, had made it an interesting contest for six innings, the troops pushed across six runs in the seventh to decide the affair. Lloyd Cann was the winning hurler, with Bert Appleby working for the Flyers. The game was called after eight and a half innings owing to darkness.

Short scores follow:

	R.	H.	E.
V.M.D.	7	10	0
Navy	5	14	5

Batteries—Douglas, Shillito and Harney; Pawluk, Ingamells, Johnson and Sparrow.

Newcombe, Verley Win

Walter Newcombe and Gordon Verley retained possession of the city golf button Sunday with a smashing 7 and 6 victory over challengers Freddy Basanta and Alex Simpson over the Uplands links. Newcombe and Verley were both hot, having a best ball of 65 for the 18 holes.

J. Tully and T. S. Whittemore won the Hibben-Bone Cup at Uplands Golf Club, defeating H. G. MacKenzie and D. Johnston, 2 up, in the final. Match was all square at the 34th with Tully and Whittemore capturing the last two holes for their win.

Bizerte Winner

SEATTLE (AP) — Circle V. Stable's Bizerte came from behind to win by a nose from J. R. Gregory's First To Fight in the $5,000 mile and a sixteenth Longacres Special Sunday.

Sir Date, owned by Charlie Low of San Francisco, was third.

Bizerte covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1 minute 43 3-5 seconds.

RIDES 6 WINNERS

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Eddie Yocum, 17-year-old apprentice jockey from Indianapolis, Ind., established a record for nearby Beulah Park Saturday when he booted home six winners on the eighth-race card.

Yocum's winners included Sis Wager, owned by his contract employer, Mrs. Leo Wagner, in the handicap feature. He won all but the second and final events.

The Rest Scores Easy Cricket Win

In the exhibition cricket match Saturday The Rest defeated the United Services 106 to 25. Jack Payne proved the bowling star for the winners, capturing five wickets for 11 runs, performing the hat-trick and taking four wickets with successive balls. His brother George was also deadly with three wickets for only five runs.

Quainton was high bat for The Rest with 20 runs, closely followed by Taylor with 18. Not a single member of the United Services reached double figures, Pugh being their high batsman with seven. Seven of their batters went down for ducks.

Good Fishing For Derby

C. Cameron Winner

Landing a 27-pound spring salmon, C. Cameron won first prize of a $50 War Bond in the rowboat derby of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association held Sunday at Saanich Arm. It was the second derby of the season and attracted between 90 and 100 competitors with good fishing reported in all locations.

Second prize of a $25 War Savings Certificate was taken by J. White with a 24½ pound fish. Other winners follow: 3, C. J. Bannerman, 23½ pounds, $20 certificate; 4, W. Robinson, 23 pounds, $15 certificate; 5, P. Arden, 22½ pounds, $10 certificate; 6, J. McLean, 21½ pounds, $5 certificate; 7, Mrs. J. Hoy, 20¼ pounds, $5 certificate; 8, R. Taylor, 19 pounds, $5 certificate; 9, Roy Robinson, 17½ pounds, $5 certificate.

Owing to the fact that all the stubs were not turned in the drawing for the consolation prize was postponed until today, following which the winner will be announced.

Prizes were presented at MacKenzie Bay by Hubert Lethaby, president of the association.

Fishing at the Arm yesterday was the best it has been all season. Seven of the nine fish that won prizes in the competition were big enough to take buttons. Four other button fish were weighed in during the day, the largest being a 31 pounder reported at Staceys. As they were caught from power boats they were not eligible for the competition. One boat checked in with 14 fish, another with 12 and one with 10. One party had four fish that totaled 82 pounds.

Fishing off Oak Bay Sunday was spotty. A few fish were reported caught in the morning and evening, but generally the results were poor. Oak Bay Boathouse reported their boats in use practically the entire day.

Fast-Moving Air Battles Over In Few Minutes

By WILLIAM STEWART

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN FRANCE (CP)—A rare but spectacular sight over the battlefields of Normandy is a dog-fight between our aircraft and German fighter-bombers which seldom put in appearance unless there is a cloud cover.

Enemy planes make most of their ventures over the bridgehead at night when they are opposed mostly by a tremendous flak barrage, but in the daytime they don't get far over British and Canadian-held territory.

When the Spitfires show up the Germans usually high-tail it for home with anti-aircraft fire bursting all around them and the Spits hot behind often flying right through the puffs of exploding shells.

SPITS MAKE CONTACT

About once a month you can see the Spitfires and perhaps a Typhoon on its way back from a rocket raid of an enemy position out beyond the front to catch a Focke-Wulf 190 or a Messerschmitt 109 out of the clouds and from then on it's like something from the movies.

Because the drone of airplanes is so commonplace, you scarcely bother about it, but your attention is drawn to a dog-fight most of the time by the thudding of cannon and machine gun fire in the air and the rasping of engines getting their greatest tests.

Probably you'll see only the clouds with patches of blue sky between them for two or three minutes before you can spot one of the darting aircraft.

Then one comes diving into the open, its engine growling, but you can't identify it for a second. A Spitfire with its familiar silhouette dives right after it and you glance back to the first, recognizing then the blunt front nose and squarish wing-tips of an FW.

It's a trim plane and seems to be able to turn almost in its own length as it twists right and then felt, climbs sharply, tries to shake off the Spitfire and get back into the clouds.

People come running out all around you on the ground to watch with the excitement of hockey fans who see a home-team player break through the opposing defence.

The FW. does make cloud cover and everybody drifts away from you talking about the close one that so-and-so had. But in about five minutes the sky is full of the same sound and you run out into the open again and this time the battle is in full view.

Two Focke-Wulfs are up there twisting and turning, and a third is streaking straight for home. Four of five Spitfires are on top of the two caught behind.

One of them gets on the trail of a Spit and white smoke trails back from the German's wings. Soon you hear the dull rattle of cannon fire and know the enemy pilot got in a burst.

A second Spitfire pops up behind him and it's all over in about five seconds. The two aircraft come around in tight circles and you can hardly tell which is following which.

END OF A GERMAN

The FW. makes a sort of U-shaped manoeuvre. The Spitfire seems only about 50 feet behind. The Spitfire's wings sparkle for a moment and smoke breaks out of the German plane.

The fight is finished before the sound of cannon fire reaches you. The FW. appears to have gone limp. It climbs a bit, one wing droops and then it starts to fall, end over end.

During the few seconds that combat has taken, the other German and a second Spitfire have been trying to out-manoeuvre each other. Your eyes turn to them and their background of white clouds. The smaller enemy aircraft does a short of figure-eight and the turning Spitfire at one moment has its nose turned in the opposite direction to the enemy's.

Then, just for a second, the Spitfire's nose comes around and sweeps across the path of the Foche-Wulf and you see a red explosion right on the enemy's fuselage. That fight is over too.

The Focke-Wulf rolls half over, starts falling sideways and soon is spinning down like a slowly turning wheel without a rim.

In a minute or two the Spitfires are in strung-out formation heading back for their field and you become aware of shouts and hand-clapping from the spectators around you.

Second Stamp Day In Victoria Tues.

Thirty "Miss Canadas" will be on the streets Tuesday to sell war savings stamps to buy "Bullets for B.C. Battalions."

This will be Victoria's second Civic Stamp Day and is being sponsored by Mayor Andrew McGavin of Victoria; Reeve L. W. Woodhouse of Oak Bay, Reeve Thomas Hadfield of Esquimalt, and Reeve E. C. Warren of Saanich.

In addition to the efforts of the Miss Canadas, the clerks in all stores will approach customers to buy stamps and all offices will be canvassed by members of the Women's Voluntary Services under the convenership of Miss Sara Spencer.

War Finance officials ask Victoria citizens not to be annoyed if they are approached more than once to buy war savings stamps because all the canvassers are volunteers who are doing their best to get bullets for B.C. Battalions.

The Esquimalt Garrison Band under Bandsmaster G. E. Bower will play at points in downtown Victoria both morning and afternoon.

Headquarters for the street sales will be Spencer's Sports and Social Club.

Mayor and the three reeves ask the citizens of Greater Victoria to give Stamp Day their full support.

TWO POPPAS AND TWO MOMMAS

WITH THE CANADIAN SEAFORTHS IN ITALY—You will go a long way before you find a more entertaining show than an Italian heated verbal encounter. I have witnessed many a public scene of this nature. . . Pouring out a terrific blue-streak of words, the angry people scream at each other at hysterical pitch. They can be heard for blocks. . . Most of the time tears are thrown in. They are quite a weepy people. Always plenty of arm-waving. They talk as much with their hands as with their mouths. On the whole quite a dramatic show. . .

Just recently Eric Marshall, whose mother lives on St Patrick Street, and I came upon four of them hard at it in a back street, two mommas and two poppas. A batch of Jerry machine guns couldn't have rapped out as many rounds as there was shrill wordage whipping through the air. . . Of course, the whole neighborhood came out to watch the show—the grins on their faces illustrating their pleasure in this type of entertainment. . . After watching them in their squabbles many times I have come to the conclusion these "Eyeties" don't in the least mind making their arguments public property.

THEY CALL IT SPORT

Back home it would never happen! But in "Eyetieland" I have seen quite a number of poppas armed with light sporting guns (sometimes with a dog in tow) out in the fields potting away at those colorful feathered friends, the song bird, no longer than a golf ball complete with feathers. No, not a sporting pastime to us.

PIAZZAS

One feature we particularly miss over this way is the individual home. Here numerous families are jam-packed together in large buildings. . . That individualist spirit is almost completely non-existent among the common people. . . Consequently, few families have the luxury of a front or backyard in which to loll away their evening hours. So, unless they go "promenading" (take a walk), how do they get to enjoy the evening air? The answer is "piazzas," small iron-railed balconies jutting out from the upper storeys of the buildings, which are plentifully adorned with them. . . It is on the piazzas that one sees a good deal of the population of an Italian town in the evening—gossiping over the spaces between piazzas, sewing or mending, reading or just lazily watching the town go by below. . . If some soldier tells you he "looked up to the Eyeties," don't get him wrong!

LAUNDRY TROUBLES

At one time it was quite a difficult operation to get your laundry uptown to have it done at a particular spot where you knew it would be done good. . . As soon as you got out of the camp gate an avalanche of women converged on you, each one trying to outcry the others to win your favor. . . It took a lot of repeated "no's" to convince them you didn't want them to do your laundry, but you got quite a mauling over during the keen competition as women sought to emphasize their words by grabbing at your arms. You were finally able to get through the blockade, but some hopefuls continued to follow you down the street trying to coax you with last-minute appeals. . . Mob scenes at the gate got so bad the military now have regimental police armed with sticks keeping the women at their distance on the other side of the street. Yes, it is easier now to get your laundry uptown; if you tuck the bundle under your arm like a rugby ball and run for it before the mob has a chance to close in on you some distance down from the gate. . . The handsome prices the boys pay for their laundry work brought on the keen competition.

See that G.S. badge on his arm? That means he's volunteered to fight anywhere in the world.

J. Murray Gibbon Here From East

J. MURRAY GIBBON

Wearing a Palm Beach suit in compliment to Victoria's summery weather, silver-haired John Murray Gibbon, LL.D., F.R.C.S., founder of the Canadian Authors' Association, the Vancouver branch of which he addressed Saturday evening, is in Victoria today.

Well known throughout Canada and the United States for his long service as general publicity representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Gibbon is also widely known for his contributions to interpretive literature.

As president of the Canadian Handicrafts Guild, Mr. Gibbon said today he was interested in the establishment of a specialized handicraft centre in all the Canadian provinces. In British Columbia it is planned to specialize in weaving.

Canadian Handicrafts Guild, he said, is co-operating with Canadian Legion educational services in the very important question of establishing handicrafts for the employment of disabled soldiers. This phase of work is being taken up by Mr. Gibbon during his visit to Victoria. Mr. Gibbon also was interested in health matters and plans a conference here with Dr. G. F. Amyot, provincial health officer. He is collaborating with Miss Mary Mathewson of Montreal in the production of a book on Canadian nursing.

Gyros Hand $5,005.25 To the Solarium

President Fred Hawes of the Gyro Club today presented a cheque for $5,005.25 to President Walter Luney of the Solarium. The money was raised by the Gyros at their fifth annual hole-in-one contest last month.

The presentation was made at the joint luncheon of the Gyro Club, Chamber of Commerce and Canadian Club in honor of the visit of Hon. Ray Atherton, U.S. Ambassador to Canada.

Mr. Hawes said the Gyros were delighted to again assist the Solarium in its great work for the crippled children of British Columbia.

This is the largest amount the Gyros have raised in their contest for the Solarium. Mr. Hawes stated the club had taken in $5,237.71 and that expenses had been kept down to $232.46.

"May we take this opportunity to thank all those who so generously helped us to make this contribution to a very worthy cause," Mr. Hawes said.

In Police Court

William A. Luesley, a civilian, was charged in city police court today with wearing the uniform of a petty officer of the R.C.N. without authority. At Luesley's request, Magistrate H. C. Hall remanded the case to Thursday. No plea was entered.

Roland August Palm, quartermaster on Ss. Princess Alice, was charged with failing to report for medical examination in accordance with National Selective Service Regulations. Pleading not guilty, Palm said in his own defence that the orders to report for examination had borne the name "Roonald" instead of "Roland." He had returned the orders, he said, giving his right name and address; then had waited for further notice. He had no desire to stay out of the forces, he added.

Remarking that it was a trivial point to raise over the difference in the name, Magistrate Hall told Palm that Claude Harrison, city prosecutor, was willing to write to the registrar and seek permisison for Palm to report for examination on his own accord. Otherwise, said the magistrate, he would have to make out an order for Palm to be taken for examination under custody. He then adjourned the case to Thursday so that Mr. Harrison might get in touch with the registrar.

Nine motorists paid fines totaling $77.50 for parking and driving offences. Five men, found guilty of intoxication, were fined a total of $110.

Canadians In On Final Blow With U.S. In Pacific War, Declares Atherton

United States now has at least 65 aircraft carriers in active service and should have 100 by the end of the year, Hon. Ray Atherton, United States Ambassador to Canada, told a crowded luncheon of the Chamber of Commerce, Canadian Club and Gyro Club in the Empress Hotel today.

He recalled that at the time of Pearl Harbor the U.S. had seven aircraft carriers and in the following year lost four by enemy action.

Speaking of the Battle of the Atlantic and the guarding of the vital convoy routes between America and Britain, Mr. Atherton paid tribute to the part of the Canadian Navy, which, he said had played "a glorious role."

JAP FLEET HIDING

Now, he said, Tojo of Japan, who once boasted he would dictate peace terms from the White House, is looking for new houses in Japan and "the once proud Japanese fleet is hiding in home waters and does not dare to venture forth to defend territory only 600 miles from Tokyo."

The final blow in the Pacific, the ambassador said, will be delivered by British and Canadian, Australian and New Zealand forces, as well as by the forces of the United States.

Of the north Pacific, Mr. Atherton said Canada and the United States must continue to stand together, on guard in this section of the globe.

Of all the bonds linking the two countries, he said, none is greater than that of a common language.

The ambassador emphasized the necessity of continued co-operation between the two countries.

Quoting President Roosevelt on his recent trip through this region, he said:

"Our two countries must continue together and stand on guard, in the words of O Canada in this highly strategic area."

He opened his address in humorous vein, saying he had been stopped frequently here and told that if he stayed in the region for 20 years, he'd still be nothing but a lad. Whether that meant senile decay had set in or that he would never grow old, he could not say.

"I shall never forget," the ambassador said, "my arrival here yesterday. I was greeted not only by the glorious sunshine, but glorious news." He referred to the advances made by Allied troops in Europe and the statement North American forces were in the suburbs of Paris.

The continent's attention had been directed to the Pacific Northwest by President Roosevelt's recent trip, Mr. Atherton said, noting the President had laid due emphasis on the success of combined Canadian-U.S. activities in this area which had been vital in securing the Pacific from the Japanese.

The very real menace of the Japanese was thoroughly apparent, he said, noting the President's remarks regarding steps which must be taken to prevent its recurrence.

The ambassador, quoting at length from British and U.S. poets, pointed to the strength of the joint literary heritage enjoyed by the Anglo-Saxon peoples.

No language, not even Greek, had lent itself as had English to the expression of the ideals of poetry, to the values which the poets represented.

Rupert Brooke, he said, belonged as much in Cambridge, Mass., as he did in his own beloved Cambride, England.

CHAUCER AT HOME HERE

"Here on Vancouver Island, Chaucer is at home," he said, describing the universality of poetry's appeal.

The common heritage of poetry, said Mr. Atherton, meant more than a common heritage of the music of words. It meant a common heritage of thought and the ideals of living.

He compared thought expressed by Marlowe with that voiced by a 20th century New England poet, noting the seeds of 17th Century England had found full fruit in the U.S.

The conflict between the Puritans and the Cavaliers remained in the U.S. long after English compromise had blurred the difference in the older land, he said. It found expression in part at least in the Civil War which some historians had sought to explain simply through the difference over slavery and, more latterly, over economic issues.

The popularity of Sir Walter Scott bore witness to that point, emphasizing the survival of the cavalier spirit in the U.S. for so many years.

The ambassador discounted the assumption of a great gulf between the peoples of Britain and those of the United States arising from the latter's practice of assimilating all nationalities. Superficial commentators, he said, had forgotten the myriads of bloods which had gone into the make-up of the British.

In contrast to such superficial differences, he pointed to the cohesion of a joint heritage in the deep and abiding ideals held in common.

The ambassador was introduced by Premier John Hart, who referred to Mr. Atherton's distinguished career and the honor accorded Victoria by his visit. It served, the premier said, to indicate the recognition given Canada's part in the war.

Mr. Hart spoke of Mr. Atherton's service in Great Britain, Denmark, China, Japan and Bulgaria, saying his 14 years in Great Britain had played an important part in cementing the friendly relationships between the United States and Britain.

The premier closed with a sincere and warm welcome to the ambassador and his family.

Rev. George Biddle, president of the Canadian Club, introduced John Cochrane, who thanked the ambassador. Mr. Cochrane referred to Mr. Atherton as "our eloquent, gracious and honored guest." Mr. Cochrane said such a gathering as the one the ambassador addressed is a product of Anglo-Saxon democracy.

G. Hamilton Harman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, was in the chair. Bishop H. E. Sexton asked the blessing.

Head table guests were F. W. Hawes, president of the Gyro Club; Walter Luney, president of the Solarium directorate; deputy attorney-general Eric Pepler, K.C.; Capt. J. M. Grant, C.O., Royal Canadian Naval College; Dana Doten; Hon. Herbert Anscomb, Minister of Public Works and Municipal Affairs; Group-Capt. B. D. Hobbs, C.O., R.C.A.F., Patricia Bay; Thomas F. Monaghan, officer-in-charge, United States immigration service here; Capt. Barry German, N.O.I.C. at Esquimalt; Bishop Remington; U.S. consul Robert L. Smyth; R. W. Mayhew, M.P.; Col. K. W. Hicks, representing the army; Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education; Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson; Hon. E. C. Carson, Minister of Mines, Trade and Industry; Dean Spencer Elliott; A. A. Baker, president, Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Atherton Motoring To Nanaimo Tuesday

Hon. Ray Atherton, U.S. Ambassador to Canada, will leave Victoria tomorrow morning at 10 by automobile for Nanaimo, where he will lunch with Brig. Arthur Roy, O.B.E., who is in command of the Nanaimo camp. He will be accompanied by Robert L. Smyth, U.S. consul here.

Mr. Atherton will leave Nanaimo by the 2.45 steamer for Vancouver and proceed to Ottawa.

Greater Victoria Action Urged By Postwar Group

Mayor Andrew McGavin and Reeves L. W. Woodhouse, Oak Bay; and Thomas Hadfield, Esquimalt, are urged to continue their good work aimed at inauguration of an active policy of co-ordination on the part of the four municipalities in community benefit moves in a brief from the Local Employment Advisory Committee, Federal Selective Service, Greater Victoria Unification Sub-committee, received for today's City Council meeting.

The committee, which for weeks has been making a study of the Greater Victoria problem, specifically suggests setting up of necessary consultative and fact-finding inter-municipal organizations on the questions of transportation, water supply, fire protection, sewerage, police, education and health services.

The brief, signed by Kenneth Drury, as chairman, M. H. King, Nancy Hodges, M.L.A., Charles Chivers and H. L. Smith, says:

"We note the move initiated by Mayor McGavin in co-operation with Reeve Woodhouse of Oak Bay and Reeve Hadfield of Esquimalt, towards a greater measure of co-operation on the part of these three municipalities, which, with urban Saanich, make up the Greater Victoria area.

CO-ORDINATION ACCLAIMED

"As a sub-committee of the local Employment Advisory Committee set up by Selective Service under the Fderal Department of Labor, we are instructed to inform you that this effort has been unanimously acclaimed by the major committe as a constructive step of the first importance in the formulation of an adequate program for postwar reconstruction and rehabilitation in this area.

"This committee was set up to advise the federal department on worthy projects which might be undertaken to provide postwar employment.

"Force[on our attention has been the fact that greater coordination in the major public services in this area is a prerequisite of satisfactory development.

"Before the new federal housing program proceeds, it is essential that a town planning program be worked out. That is, if we of these communities are to benefit to the full, and if we are to avert traffic congestion and overcrowding in some areas as against wasted space in others.

"Involved in all this is the opportunity of making the more populous Victoria of tomorrow as attractive a place in which to live as has been the smaller Victoria we have known. As the interests of the four municipalities in this are common, any program can be worked out only through co-ordination on the part of the four municipalities.

"The importance of this was emphasized by Mr. John Galbraith, head of the Community Planning Division, National Housing Administration, when he conferred with municipal representatives here the other day. Vancouver and other municipalities looking to the future have already moved in the matter of co-ordinating town planning. In their areas the four municipalities here should not delay if Greater Victoria is not to lag.

VITAL SUBJECTS

"Linked with town planning and calling for consideration if Greater Victoria is to make the most of its opportunities are problems of:

"1. Transportation — This can only be co-ordinated and developed to meet the growing needs by the four municipalities acting jointly.

"2. Water supply—For industrial expansion a more abundant supply is essential. The same is true with respect to the needs of rapidly-expanding residential areas in the three outlying municipalities. Some of these areas already lack an adequate supply. Welfare of these areas is important to the city. Greater Victoria property and business values are increasingly dependent on the residential population of the three outside municipalities, which is now approaching that of Victoria.

"3. Fire protection, sewerage, police, education and health services—all these increasing as the population grows.

"In the light of the foregoing, the local employment advisory committee highly commends the foresight and initiative displayed, as mentioned above, by Mayor McGavin and the two reeves in conferring among themselves and with Premier Hart. This committee urges that Mayor McGavin and the reeves continue their good work aimed at the inauguration of an active policy of co-ordination on the part of the four municipalities in these matters by setting up the necessary consultative and fact-finding inter-municipal organizations."

Jockey Fatally Hurt In Edmonton Spill

CALGARY (CP) — Jockey Tommy Wintle, 25, of Edmonton, died in hospital this afternoon and calling for consideration if from injuries received in a race track spill at Victoria Park on Saturday afternoon. He received a fractured skull and a dislocated neck.

Wintle received his injuries during the running of the first race. His mount, Gatwick II, ran up on the heels of another horse and when he stumbled Wintle was thrown clear.

Another horse, Bellos, with Jockey J. Braddish aboard, collided with Wintle and one of the horse's hooves struck him on the back of the head.

Bill Youhill, Well-known Lawn Bowler, Passes

W. H. (Bill) Youhill, well-known lawn bowler, died Sunday at the Jubilee Hospital. A member of the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club, he was a familiar figure on the greens during the annual holiday tournaments staged here every summer.

In the winter months Youhill continued his bowling activities indoors and in recent years played with several leading five-pin and tenpin teams.

He was born in London, Ont., 72 years ago. He had been ailing for some time. He had been a printer on the Colonist for many years.

E. A. Leslie, regional representative, priorities branch, Department of Munitions and Supply, will be in Victoria Wednesday and Thursday to interview interested persons or firms at No. 7, 640 Fort Street, phone E 4511.

Soviets Admit Local Reverses In Latvia Area

LONDON (CP)—The German communique said today that Nazi tank formations pushing west of Tukums in Latvia had crashed through the Soviet corridor to the Baltic west of Riga and "re-established temporarily lost contact" with the 30 or 50 German divisions in Latvia and Estonia.

The Russians at midnight admitted local reverses in that sector, but did not indicate that the corridor had been cut. The force of up to 300,000 Germans were severed from land communications several weeks ago. The Germans said a naval flotilla aided the tank force.

The Germans asserted also that the Russians had driven a third bridgehead across the broad Vistula River west of Kazimierz, 75 miles south of Warsaw and 36 miles east of Radom.

Other crossings have been reported 30 odd miles south of the besieged capital at Warka and at Baranow, 110 miles southeast. The Russians have announced only the Baranow crossing, where they hold 1,500 square miles west of the stream.

BATTLE NEAR IASI

A Rumanian communique said "furious fighting" has been in progress since Aug. 19 in the Iasi area, 175 miles from the Ploesti oil fields and refineries.

Moscow reports said Soviet forces have smashed three Nazi divisions in the Sandomierz salient south of Warsaw, while other Red Army units have yielded slightly before costly German attempts to rescue 200,000 troops isolated on the Baltic fronts.

In the Warsaw sector, meanwhile, Russian troops have driven closer to Praga, suburb to the east of the city, and have captured some vital positions to the northeast, front dispatches said.

Marshal Ivan S. Konev's 1st Ukraine Army, thrusting up the west bank of the Vistula, liquidated the trapped Germans north of Sandomierz. "As the enemy refused to surrender, most of the encircled troops were killed," the Russian war bulletin declared.

The victory freed Konev's forces for a possible drive either southwest on the rail fortress of Krakow, north toward Warsaw, or directly west across the Polish plains toward German Silesia, which would snap the Polish capital's communication lines.

Can Retain Yield Says MacMillan

VANCOUVER (CP) A comprehensive, sustained yield program without sacrificing either production or employment is feasible for B.C. coast forests, H. R. MacMillan submitted to the Royal Commission on forestry today.

This was conditional on a 15-year changeover program to be started at once.

"In that period," said his brief, "should be initiated and developed the changes necessary to convert our present policy of forest exploitation to the essential policy of working to a sustained annual yield."

Yield, he believed, could be kept at the present 3,000,000,000 feet, with an emergency 5,000,000,000 feet for the immediate postwar years. By 60 years even larger production could follow closer utilization.

Mr. MacMillan's basic plea was for concentration of all attention on bringing forward new stock.

Town Topics

A small grass fire on Blanshard Street late Sunday evening was the only fire over the week-end reported by the city fire department.

Considerable damage was done to an autocycle ridden by Miss C. Burridge, 424 Gorge Road, Saturday afternoon when it and a car driven by Mrs. Mabel Mills, 1023 Mason Street, were in collision at the intersection of View and Blanshard Streets, city police report.

A permit for $1,000 alterations to 1035 Rockland Avenue, which will be converted into a three-suite apartment, was issued by the city building inspector's department today. Also granted was a permit for a $4,700 five-room home for E. E. Jones at 2575 Blackwood.

William Irvine, former C.C.F. member of the House of Commons, will address a public meeting at Woodsworth Hall evening in the intersts of FO. Murray Bryce, C.C.F. candidate in Victoria federal riding, who is now in the city on furlough from air force duties in the north.

Breaks Leg in Collision

Running out from behind two cars Saturday afternoon, five-year-old Adam Vstak, 545 Hillside Avenue, collided with a bicycle ridden by Miss Lorna Ash, 524 Hillside Avenue. He was taken to hospital by his father, where it was discovered the boy had broken his leg, city police report.

IN MEMORIAM

CHESWORTH—In loving memory of our mother, Mary Jane Chesworth, who passed away Aug. 21, 1937.

You can only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all the world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness
She asked nothing in return;
If all the world deserts you,
To your mother you can turn.
So all I can do, dear mother,
Is to go and tend your grave,
And leave behind a token of love,
To the best mother God ever gave.
—Ever remembered by her family.

EXPLODING another theory that blue-eyed parents can't have brown-eyed children . . . couple in the States who are both blue eyed, say both their sons have brown eyes. Steel folding camp cots, thick mattresses, $15. Money can talk, but it never gives itself away (E. Riney). Giving away a studio lounge and 2 matching chair for $69 is making it talk (blue or green). He commanded in a tone that meant either the order or the person who received it would have to be carried out (L. C. Douglas). Our men are carrying out a flock of these Chesterfield suites because of only $119, brand new with springs, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Twain, Frederic March and Alexis Smith are starred in Warner Bros.' picturization of the life of America's famous author, "The Adventures of Mark Twain." The film, produced by Jesse L. Lasky, starts its engagement at the Capitol Theatre today.

'Follow the Boys' Being Held Over

A current example of Tin Pan Alley's contribution to wartime music is revealed in Universal's "Follow the Boys," in which 36 "big name" dramatic and musical stars are brought together on the screen. "Follow the Boys" is currently at the Plaza Theatre.

Tunes for the film were snatched right off the music stands of some of the most successful writers of popular melody. By way of contrast, another of the picture's songs is 33 years old. It is Sophie Tucker's "Some of These Days," sung by the good old girl who introduced this classic of syncopation for the first time in 1911.

Dinah Shore sings "Mad About Him Blues."

Jeanette MacDonald's songs for "Follow the Boys" also were selected because of their popularity in her camp, canteen and hospital appearances. They are "I'll See You in My Dreams" and "Beyond the Blue Horizon."

Vera Zorina and George Raft appear in a scene dancing to Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh's "I Feel a Song Coming On."

Ted Lewis and his band and Freddie Slack and his orchestra, together with the Andrews Sisters, contribute to the picture's musical score.

'Song of Russia' Stars Bob Taylor

"Song of Russia," now showing at the Atlas Theatre, is Robert Taylor's last movie for the duration. Taylor is now serving as a lieutenant (j.g.) with the Naval Air Corps.

In the powerful story of Russia today, Taylor portrays a young American composer and conductor who makes a tour of Russia as a good will gesture before the outbreak of Russo-German hostilities. In Russia he falls in love with and marries a Russian girl. With the German invasion of Russia, he is able to observe at first hand that nation's magnificent fight for survival and returns to America with his wife to fight as he knows best—with music.

Susan Peters is co-starred with Taylor as the Russian girl. In the supporting cast are Robert Benchley, John Hodiak, Daryl Hickman, Jacqueline White, Felix Bressart and Michael Chekhov.

'Morgan's Creek' To Play at Cadet

Remember Preston Sturges' "The Great McGinty"? Well, a couple of its leading characters—McGinty and the Boss (Brian Donlevy and Akim Tamiroff) appear in Paramount's latest comedy, "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek," purely as a favor to Preston Sturges, its author and director!

"The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" co-stars Eddie Bracken and Betty Hutton and is due today at the Cadet Theatre. McGinty and the Boss have no direct bearing on the story, but their presence is logical and only one of the many surprises the picture contains.

Mark Twain's Life Makes Great Film

Servicemen in the Middle East War area rated Warner Bros. film, "The Adventures of Mark Twain," currently playing at the Capitol, as the most popular photoplay shown there during March. This was reported by the Army Overseas Motion Picture Service in a letter to Warner Bros.

This reaction to Hollywood's latest fare is gratifying, for the film capital, conscious of its obligation to promote GI morale by providing tops in entertainment, has been doing just that. With this in mind, productions are shown overseas several months in advance of release in this country. One of the most recent of these is "The Adventures of Mark Twain" starring Fredric March and Alexis Smith, supported by an impressive cast which features Donald Crisp, Alan Hale and others.

'Dr. Cyclops' Show Feature at York

"Dr. Cyclops" may be the newest thing moviegoers have seen since they can remember, but Paramount's Technicolor flight of the imagination is an old story to the two men who conceived it! For they've been walking around for years with the idea in their minds, burning to get it translated onto celluloid. And now it opens today at the York Theatre.

It isn't possible to tell, here, "how it was done." That is the producer's secret. He devised the method, and he plans to use certain tricks he discovered in future productions. Suffice it to say that the film presents the amazing spectacle of the normal-sized "Dr. Cyclops," played by Albert Dekker, walking, talking and generally living with his miniscule victims, played by Janice Logan, Thomas Coley, Charles Halton, Victor Kilian and Frank Yaconelli.

New Aldrich Hit Dominion Feature

"Henry Aldrich—Boy Scout," eighth and most pretentious of the famous Paramount comedies with Jimmy Lydon, Charles Smith, John Litel and Olive Blakeney opens tomorrow at the Dominion Theatre. Joan Mortimer, who made her debut with Jimmy in "Henry Aldrich Haunts a House," again plays the part of Henry's girl friend.

Paramount had the assistance of the Boy Scouts of America throughout the production, with the organization's experts standing in to make sure that all scenes were authentic. This, however, takes nothing away from the usual comedy which has placed the Aldrich pictures high on America's list of favorites. See it by all means.

'Nor-West Rangers' To Play at Rio

Veteran character actor Russell Hicks plays an important role in "Northwest Rangers," coming today to the Rio Theatre. He portrays a district head of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police. Joe Newman directed.

AMERICAN OYSTER CATCHER LETS RAYS OF SUN HELP HATCH EGGS

Judging by its name we should expect the "oyster catcher" to feed mostly on oysters. The truth is that this bird eats other kinds of shellfish far more often than oysters. It likes clams, whelks, winkles, barnacles and limpets.

Now and then an oyster catcher may find an oyster on the beach at low tide, but it is not prepared to make raids on oyster beds well below the water. You will remember that most oysters live at depths of from 18 to 100 feet. A bird would need to be a very clever diver to get to an oyster bed at a depth of, say, 50 feet!

Yet this bird probably will keep its name for a long time. It has a strong, sharp bill which force open the shell of a clam or oyster.

Europe has oyster catchers with red eyes and orange-colored bills. Many of them are seen along the sandy beaches of Great Britain and Ireland. Some nest in fields some little distance from the coast, but in that case they make regular trips to a beach to get food.

The oyster-catchers of Europe have black and white plumage. The feathers on the wings and back are black, while the breast feathers are white.

Along the Atlantic coast of our continent are oyster catchers with much the same plumage as those of Europe except for a few brownish feathers. They are from 15 to 20 inches long when full grown.

The "American oyster catchers" range from Nova Scotia down to Florida, and from Florida to Brazil. Their eyes are yellow.

Like most of their relatives, American oyster catchers usually make small holes in the sand to serve as nests. The female lays three clay-colored eggs, with dark brown spots on them. She sits on the nest at night, and on dull days. On bright days, however, she often leaves the nest and lets the rays of the sun warm the eggs for hatching.

On the Pacific coast of North America are "black oyster catchers." These have no white feathers, but their habits are much the same as those of other oyster catchers.

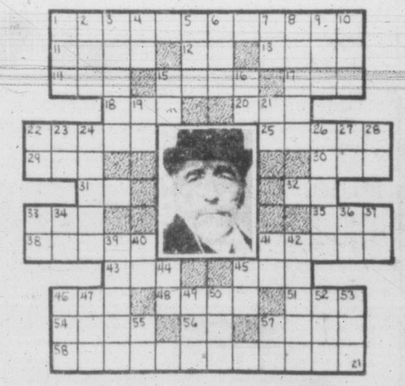

Almost every important seacoast has some oyster catchers. You may find them in Greenland and Iceland, also in Australia and New Zealand.

Australians Reject Curtin Plan

MELBOURNE (CP) — Australians have rejected the Commonwealth government's proposals to concentrate in the national parliament for five years after the war many of the powers held by the six states.

By the referendum vote the government of Prime Minister John Curtin lost greatly in prestige as the states opposed its list of 14 proposals covering participation of the government in postwar reconstruction, including control over employment, profiteering, prices and related subjects.

Only Victoria and Southern Australia voted in favor, with the other states overwhelmingly "no." A "Yes" majority was required in at least four states.

R. G. Menzies, leader of the United Australia party, which opposed the plan, said "The government has suffered a set-back and received a warning. The vote is not against constitutional revision, but against the attempt at such revision during war. It is also a clear warning that democratic liberalism is not dead and that wartime controls will not be a permanent feature of our lives."

Vancouver Users Will Save $300,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver electric users will save approximately $300,000 if the average electricity bill of $4 is the basis for computing the saving for some 70,000 householders.

Taxpayers will save in addition $18,500 on street lighting and an estimated $2,500 in school lighting.

16,000 Shipbuilders To Lose Jobs After War

VANCOUVER (CP) — There will be steel shipyard jobs for fewer than 6,000 in Vancouver after war production stops, a survey has revealed. This will be the condition even if coastal passenger and freight ship contracts are handed out here.

It is expected that at the most three yards can remain in operation and each must cut down to one or two berths.

Thus it appears that at least 16,000 of the 22,000 men and women now employed must find jobs elsewhere.

One Woman's Day . . .

By NANCY HODGES

SIGHTSEEING SOLDIERS

HURRYING THROUGH the corridors at the Parliament Buildings the other day on business bent, I ran into a group of sturdy French-Canadian soldiers, about 30 strong.

With my usual inquisitiveness I immediately asked what they were doing. And learned they were on an educational sightseeing tour.

So I decided to tail along, too. Needless to say I found the experience an interesting and stimulating one.

Incidentally, they were but one of three or four groups, totaling about 125 in all.

They hailed from a camp composed almost entirely of easterners, who come from as far away as Prince Edward Island.

Every day last week a large group from this camp—both French and English-speaking lads—was brought in to Victoria to see the sights and learn something of our historic background.

FRENCH-CANADIAN GOVERNOR

BUT TO GET back to my French-Canadian sightseers. When I joined them they were viewing the Legislative Chamber and studying the portraits of dead and gone parliamentarians in the foyer.

Their faces lighted up at seeing that of Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, distinguished and courtly French-Canadian who had been Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia from 1900 to 1906.

And I noted, too, their interested reaction to the guide's reminder that in this chamber the Old Age Pension Act, the Mothers' Pension Act, Women's Suffrage Act, and Deserted Wives' Maintenance Act were first made law in Canada.

OLD FRENCH BOOKS

VISITING THE library, they eagerly scanned the fine collection of French books.

Many of them seemed impressed with the assortment of French authors, as well as those translated into French from other languages.

But it was in the Archives department that they evinced the keenest interest.

Some of them fingered the patina of the old table at which Hudson's Bay officials of pioneer days in an American post held their deliberations.

And they were obviously impressed to learn that among the first missionaries to arrive here in 1858 were the French-Canadian priests, Father Blanchet and Bishop Demers.

APPRAISE OLD WEAPONS

I WAS AMUSED to see the way their military training influenced their appraisal of the old weapons.

For the sight of the old flintlocks, muskets, and pistols elicited excited exclamations. And they tried the old triggers and peered down ancient barrels.

Then they laughed at the formidable cannon balls of varying sizes, relics of the old forts. While several of them drew the fine old swords from their scabbards, admired the workmanship, or jestingly lunged at a companion.

The brutal-looking leg-irons which once manacled pioneer offenders also intrigued them.

As they crowded around the cases of exhibits, excited chattering called attention to what looked like a piece of dirty cheese.

When they learned it was pemmican, made of meat from the hump of a buffalo mixed with oolichan oil—the only rations available in long treks in pioneer days—they decided there was much to be said for army fare today.

COMING BACK AGAIN

SO FASCINATED were many of the men by the exhibits that several stentorian reminders had to be given them that time was up.

One lad, who spoke quite good English—as a number of them did, incidentally—was so engrossed that he was left behind and had to scurry to catch up.

But his parting remark was: "I am coming back again—as soon as I can!"

I was sorry that I could not accompany them on the rest of their tour, but other matters called me.

After visiting the museum, they went over to the old Legislative Buildings, then on to Loretto Hall to see its quaint topiary, next to Helmcken House and Thunderbird Park, finishing up in the late afternoon at the old Craigflower School.

In between times they enjoyed a picnic lunch in Beacon Hill Park, a swim at the Crystal Gardens, and a drive around the water front through the Uplands to Gordon Head.

TEACH CANADIANISM

HOWEVER, IT IS the significance of these tours which is of paramount interest to us. They are part of an army course of citizenship.

Education, in whatever guise it is presented, cannot fail to result in enlightenment, in a better understanding of our common problems, a better approach to inter-provincial relationships.

Here we have French-Canadian boys, many of whom had never left their farms, let alone their province, until they joined the army. The same thing applies, of course, to many other Canadian boys.

Not only are they learning that there is a vast Canada outside their own province, but they are learning something of the history and traditions which are a common heritage of both west and east.

And if this system of teaching the real meaning underlying Canadian citizenship does nothing more than make those French-Canadian boys interpreters of British Columbia to Quebec, and vice-versa, it will have fully justified its inclusion in their service curriculum.

N.Y. Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Further cheering war news brought modest bids for stocks with relatively bright peace prospects today, but many market leaders suffered from light liquidation.

Continued weakness of securities at London, attributed mainly to the feeling the Nazis were approaching the end and that home industry might be in for troublesome experiences, tended to sober domestic investors who, during the preceding week, had been on the buying side because of waning reconversion worries. Political hopefulness was an aid to sentiment, although curious customers returned from their long week-end with the idea of switching accounts or standing aside to await developments at home and abroad.

Canadian issues were easier.

Bonds and commodities were spotty. Except for scattered utilities and industrials, prices began to slip after the opening. Encouraging, however, was the fact there never was any real selling pressure. Transfers for the full stretch were around 800,000 shares.

(By H. A. Humber Ltd.)

Dow Jones averages closed today as follows:
30 Industrials 148.54, off 0.42
20 Rails 41.40, off 0.53
15 Utilities 25.15, up 0.19

CHICAGO (AP)—A firm cotton market and light offerings caused grain futures to rally today.

Rye at one time was as much as 1½ cents higher than the previous close.

Resting orders and the strength of rye caused wheat to advance after early weakness.

Arrival of a large cargo of Canadian oats Saturday was reflected in early weakness in the market, but prices turned firm when commission houses took all offerings.
